West Coast Announcer Charged After Interview

The Law Society of Upper Canada has charged New Westminster radio announcer Edward Murphy, of CKNW, with representing himself as a lawyer. The charge arose from an interview conducted in an Ottawa police cell with House of Commons blood-thrower David Cowlishaw, Aug. 26.

New Negotiations

New Regime May Dump Red Summit

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—There is a strong possibility that the Communist conference scheduled for next summer in Moscow will be called off by the New Soviet leadership, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Communist Chinese are adamantly opposed to the conference.

The sources said the Soviet Communist party may be planning to call off the disputed meeting and then enter into negotiations with the Chinese on a suitable date for a conference that would bring together all the Communist parties of the world.

WILL NOT ATTEND

Besides the Chinese, a number of national parties have made clear that they will not attend the meeting set for next year by former premier Nikita Khrushchev, ousted as Russia's top Communist a week ago by Leonid Brezhnev.

The ostensible purpose of next year's meeting is to heal the rift between Russia and China and restore world Communist unity. The Chinese, however, suspect that it is designed to isolate them.

DRAFTING GROUP

A drafting commission is scheduled to meet here Dec. 15 to lay the groundwork for the conference. The sources said this preliminary meeting will be called sooner if the Soviet leaders decide against going ahead with the 1965 plenary meeting.

OTTAWA — Election history could be repeating itself. Three years ago, almost to the week, former Conservative prime minister Diefenbaker led his cabinet out across the land in a blitz of speeches that ran to an impressive 103 in a few weeks. That was the fall of '61.

The election followed in the spring of '62. Look what's happening now.

In the past week, Prime Minister Pearson and 12 members of his cabinet have made 26 speeches, with who knows how many more scheduled.

Fanning out across the land have been the Prime Minister and cabinet members Favreau of Justice, Sharp of Trade, Nicholson of Post Office, Iain of Northern Affairs, Martin of External, Drury of Industry, Rays of Agriculture, LaMarsh of Health, Gordon of Finance, Lamontagne of State, Bendickson of Mines, and MacEachen of Labor.

The word sweeping Parliament Hill is that the Prime Minister is reconciled to, if not ready, for an early spring election.

The sudden blitz of cabinet ministerial public appearances is part of the process of getting ready.

Now the prime minister, say associates, is prepared to go to the country, if the opposition:

● Digs in again on the flag, fighting for the Canadian Red Ensign and blocking selection of the tri-empire leaf.

● Blocks any of the supply votes, which would run the government up against its monthly bills with no funds to meet them.

● Fights against the government's proposals to re-arrange the constitution at a price which critics already have said clearly involves selling out federal power to the provinces.

On all three the Conservative Opposition is set for battle.

Should it be war to the political death, the government would carry on until the pre-

Christmas end of this marathon session, now in progress since February. The session passed the record-breaking 175th day Friday.

Then it would recess over the Christmas-New Year holiday. Call parliament back into early session shortly after the new year, with dissolution timed for February or March at the latest, with the election following in April or May.

MILLIONS FOR NAVY

By JOHN SHAW
Colonist Staff Writer

OTTAWA — Canada's government will shortly begin implementing a multi-million-dollar program of naval construction and purchase of new aircraft, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer told the Colonist Friday.

"A sizeable program" was the phrase he used but he didn't go into cost details. And the program will be announced "within the next few days."

Priorities have been set by the services, however, and the government is preparing estimates on its huge integrated defence plans.

HALF BILLION DOLLARS

Naval construction, it is generally believed, will be in the realm of half a billion dollars. And depending on the type of new aircraft eventually selected, the price of each machine can vary from $1,500,000 for the Northrop F-5, for example, to $3,000,000, which is the pretty considerable cost of the new and bigger F-4.

There has been no decision at this time, the minister said, on the arming of new naval vessels with nuclear weapons, although he admitted the matter was under consideration.

"There have been some other developments in the armaments field and it is a matter of opinion whether nuclear weapons are required."

MAY BE USEFUL

"It may be unfortunate," he went on, "that it is necessary to contemplate the replacement of major military equipment all at the same time. However, on the other hand, it may be useful that we can look at these things in their relation to each other."

Perjury Charge

Quebec Judge Given Two-Year Jail Term

MONTREAL (CP)—A Quebec Superior Court justice was handcuffed by a provincial police officer Friday and led from the courtroom to begin serving a two-year prison term for perjury.

Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier, 58, a former member of Parliament for Montreal Papineau, was convicted on three charges of perjury in a dramatic trial that set a precedent in Quebec's legal history.

CALLED IN SPECIALLY

The sentence was pronounced by Judge Benoit Turmel of Sherbrooke, brought in specially to hear the case.

Mr. Justice Meunier immediately inscribed an appeal against the conviction but failed to obtain his release on bail when Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay took the motion for his release under advisement.

SEEK BAIL

The lawyers, after inscribing the appeal against the judgment, asked Mr. Justice Tremblay of the Quebec Court of Appeal to release their client on two bonds of $500 each. They emphasized that he is under constant treatment for arteriosclerosis.

The chief justice's judgment

on the bail issue is expected early next week.

The charges arose from a special hearing conducted by sessions court Judge Claude Wagner, now Quebec's solicitor-general.

The hearing concerned an alleged $64,000 fraudulent bankruptcy in 1962 of two former clients of Mr. Justice Meunier, who was a lawyer at the time.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Mr. Justice Meunier showed no sign of emotion when he heard the 11-page judgment.

It read in part: "I am convinced beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused testified falsely on the facts mentioned in the charge, that he knew these things were false and that he made them with the aim of misleading the court and hiding the truth."

Transplants Performed

Dead Boy May Give Sight to Adult Pair

VANCOUVER (CP) — A six-year-old boy may in death have given sight to the living.

Doctors say they will know within several days whether corneal transplants from traffic victim Terrance Allen McGillivray have helped two partially-blinded adults.

Mrs. A. A. McGillivray offered her sons eyes to the British Columbia eye bank after he was hit by a truck and fatally injured Tuesday.

A Vancouver man and a woman from Victoria were called to the Vancouver General Hospital and corneal transplants were performed Wednesday.

A navy man was killed and a woman injured at 12:45 a.m. today in a head-on collision of two cars at the intersection of Craigflower and Armit, near the Songhees Indian reserve in Esquimalt. The woman was reported in fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Subways, Streets Battle Scenes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hundreds of high school students Friday staged two bloody rumble on streets and in subway trains, injuring innocent bystanders as well as combatants. One of the gang fights erupted from disputes between white and Negro students at a Brooklyn school. Nineteen students were arrested—13 in Brooklyn and six in Manhattan.

Ten girl students of a Brooklyn Catholic high school, riding a subway train while the melee was in progress, suffered bloody noses, black eyes and bruised arms. They were among a total of about 13 injured, one of them a 71-year-old white man who was tossed down a flight of subway steps.

800 Riot at Maryland Prison

JESSUPS, Md. (AP)—An estimated 800 prisoners at the Maryland house of correction rioted Friday night on their way back from the dining hall.

They took several guards as hostages.

But less than three hours later, about half of the prisoners were forced back into their cells after a destructive rampage.

***

Lt.-Col. George Davidson, state police chief of operations, said about a dozen guards had been rescued unharmed as a cellblock to confront the riotous prisoners.

"The guards had locked themselves in the cells for protection," Davidson said.

None of the guards had been injured, but two prisoners had been hurt by flying objects thrown from one prison tier to another.

Gordon Preparing Groundwork

Income Tax Cut Likely in '65

OTTAWA (CP)—A 1965 cut in federal income taxes now seems highly probable on both economic and political grounds. It appears the foundations for such action are being carefully laid in a series of speeches by Finance Minister Drury and other cabinet members.

Their recurrent theme is the need for expansionary policy to stimulate not just economic growth — Canada already has that — but a growth rate high enough to provide jobs for the thousands of youngsters now flooding into the labor market.

***

Without such action unemployment will surely rise again, authorities here believe. It now is running at a seasonally-adjusted rate of about five per cent of the labor force.

Expansionary policy could mean easy credit. But credit already is easy. If anything, the prospects are that international events could cause interest rates to rise.

Hence the most readily available tool for Ottawa to stimulate demand, production and more jobs is a tax reduction, informants say. Present indications are both personal and corporate taxpayers would benefit, the latter the most.

***

There are compelling political arguments being advanced here for such a move.

The minority Pearson government is facing several high parliamentary hurdles on the pension plan, flag, redistribution, government supply and other issues. Many observers expect the government to clear these hurdles, in time.

Meanwhile, broad suggestions Mr. Gordon's next budget speech—if he gets a chance to deliver it—will contain tax cuts, are viewed here as an excellent hedge against the possibility of a winter election.

Scientist's Guess

China H-Bomb Two Years Off?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. nuclear scientist Ralph Lapp said Friday he believes Communist China can start producing hydrogen bombs in about two years.

Lapp estimated present Chinese A-bomb capacity at about one a month.

Eventually, Lapp said, China will become the world's third nuclear power after the United States and Russia. Britain is now the third power in terms of atomic arms, and France is fourth.

Dr. Lapp worked in the U.S. atomic weapons program in the Second World War.

PRIMITIVE

Both the Atomic Energy Commission and defence department have described the test device detonated by China Oct. 16 as a primitive bomb comparable to those exploded by the United States in 1945.

U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has expressed doubt that any airplanes possessed by the Chinese Communists could carry bombs as heavy and bulky as the one tested last Friday.

Lapp was not comforted by this. The first A-bomb used by the United States in the Second World War was a "crude device." It was 10 feet long and 2½ feet in diameter, and weighed 4½ tons.

But a B29, itself a "crude device" compared to modern bombers, he said, managed to drop it on Hiroshima.

Cuba Wins Canada Case

MONTREAL (CP)—An action claiming $953,858 from the Cuban government was dismissed Friday by a Superior Court judge, who ruled the Castro regime cannot be sued in Canadian courts because it is a sovereign state recognized by Canada. The action was brought by World Wide Airlines Inc. over a cargo flight agreement.

'Hands Off' Canadian Water

EDMONTON (CP)—A growing feeling in the United States now talking as if Canadian water resources are a continental resource was a $15,000,000,000 scheme sharply rejected Friday by proposed by a reputable United States engineering firm for use of Canadian water on this basis, he said.

Mr. Laing told the third national northern development conference, "we deny categorically that there is anything like a continental resource involved when it comes to water. This is a Canadian resource."

There are people in the U.S. will spend on Canadian river studies.

The studies would involve "not only power potential, but also the potential of multi-purpose uses."

When United States markets were considered continental markets, when United States money was considered continental money and when United States technology was considered continental technology, "then it will be time enough to begin to think about Canadian water in terms of a continental resource."

Mr. Laing added that the manner in which Canada managed its water resources in the next generation "may well determine whether Canada can continue as a viable and economically strong nation."

He also said the federal government has launched an economic study of implications to Canada of possible paying of the Alaska Highway.

The study should be completed next year.

One Equals Nine

A WEEK AGO this newspaper said that if no second thoughts arose about the new-found formula for making amendments, the country was in a fair way to solving its constitutional problems. One such thought, or rather a whole new alternative, has been suggested by Mr. Leon Balcer, a Quebec Conservative MP.

He would do away with the BNA Act altogether and draft an entirely new constitution.

There may be some argument for framing a new constitution from the ground up instead of patching an old one, but not for the reasons advanced by Mr. Balcer.

The BNA Act, he is reported as saying, inspires only boredom and embarrassment. As an expression of boredom seems scarcely a relative term to use, and the recent federal-provincial conference on the subject had unanimously concluded that its amending formulas would remove the embarrassment of having to go to London to make changes in the act.

Mr. Balcer's real objection to the BNA Act, however, is easily to be noted. His idea is that Canada should adopt a wholly new constitution that ensures what he calls equality and partnership between French and English-speaking Canadians.

There have been disputes as to the allocation of powers between federal and provincial jurisdictions and the interpretations placed on certain sections of the BNA Act, but nowhere does the act discriminate between French and English-speaking provinces. As a partner in Confederation Quebec is allotted complete equality with all other provinces.

If there are inhibitions in Quebec about its progress and development and the competitive qualities of the Quebecois in contrast to other Canadians, the cause must be found in its own internal policies, as a province it has the same educational, legal, financial and administrative authority as all other provinces. What Mr. Balcer seems to be arguing is the theme of the Quebec dissidents whose idea of equality is that this one province, because it is French in ethnic heritage, should be made equal to all the other nine provinces combined.

A further clue to his thinking is his proposal that a royal commission should be appointed to draft the new constitution he favors. This would be an "escape valve" for the discontented Quebec intellectuals of that province. In other words further appeasement of Quebec. The rest of Canada, the English-speaking components of Confederation, could be excused if they would favor some appeasement being slanted in their direction.

Mr. Balcer is the deputy leader of the national, Conservative Party, but he concedes that he is advancing his own personal views. It is just as well that this is so.

Clearing the Air

THE CONTINUOUSLY rising demand for pulp and paper products throughout the world makes it inevitable that British Columbia with its massive timber stands is going to see this section of its economy expand until the limit of raw material is reached.

In the process of this expansion more and more areas of the country—and particularly along the Vancouver Island coastline—are going to come into the aura of the pulp and paper industry.

Because of the nature of its manufacturing process the "aura" of the pulp and paper industry is unfortunately synonymous with "odor." An increasing number of communities have found their gentle zephyrs no longer laden with the sweet smells of new mown hay and honeysuckle, but charged with the sulphur laden fumes emanating from neighboring pulp plants.

As no one pretends that the odors of the pulp mill are other than objectionable, and though their only recommendation is that they smell like opulence, it is pleasing to note that the B.C. Research Council is making considerable progress in its experiments aimed at reducing or eliminating altogether the objectionable odors.

This research can only be deemed successful if it enables the industry to make the necessary changes and still remain competitive with other mills where odor objections have not been raised.

As the new research is aimed at removing the sulphur content from the fumes, by its complete retention in the manufacturing process, this economic objection may conceivably be removable.

If this happens and pure air is restored to such communities as the Alberni, Campbell River, Nanaimo, Duncan and Crofton, it will be a great step forward, not only to the tourist industry but to the people who live permanently in this lovely part of the country.

Victoria itself on occasion gets wafts of the pulp odor from the distant mills, but its own industrial problem—that of smoke and fly-ash from the important sawmill industry—is one that has similarly irritating effects, and deserves further research aimed at its elimination.

Which?

EARLIER THIS week a report from Ottawa revealed that women are getting scarce in Canada. For the first time in many years bureau of statistics figures show that men outnumber women by 9,699,200 to 9,537,800.

In the same week, Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels of New York University told a Boston audience that girls today are anything but "sugar and spice and everything nice" but instead are well trained "operators" who will use every means available to get their man.

Canadian males will surely be forgiven after reading both these reports if they can't decide whether they are lucky or unlucky.

Compassion His Favorite Theme

Britain's New Prime Minister

By NORA BELOFF from London

HAROLD Wilson, the stubby Yorkshireman who is Britain's youngest prime minister of the century, has come to power physically aged but mentally matured by his first 18 months as leader of the Labour Party. He looks tired, but his eyes are still sparkling with excitement.

Having a natural baby face, round and dimpled, he stayed looking much less than his age of 48 until quite recently, but although the silvery hair and the more wrinkled face betray the tremendous stress of the last 18 months, he has held himself remarkably controlled.

His passions are never revealed except on purpose. He never flies out at people or loses his head. During the election campaign he was driven around by veteran local worthies who on two occasions got lost on their way to school buildings in the evening. Once in his own Cheshire constituency of Huyton, they drove an entire convoy of cars up an impasse; once they had to ask their way four times. Only Harold Wilson could have managed a superhuman patience of not asking them why they hadn't mastered the route before wasting his precious time and irritating the electors by making them wait.

Wilson has fought back against charges of being a technocrat, an efficient calculating machine. His nimble mind works as fast as ever, but apart from using repartee with flamboyant effect to demolish hecklers—and by now he knows all their tags and his repartees are poised and polished in advance—he has not shown off his intellectual superiority. What he has brought out is an indignation, which I believe genuine, against unfairness of the present social system. The essential part of his campaign was puritanical. His favorite butts were the get-rich-quick boys, the speculators, the faceless takeover bidders, and his favorite theme which sometimes came out more like a sermon than a party speech, was that men should be valued not for what they have but for what they are.

Compassion was his favorite theme and he interpreted it in terms of dealing with poverty and underprivilege at home and abroad. He has spoken as a man with direct knowledge of people in need and is as much at home in an old-age pensioner's home, where people like his father-in-law have ended up, as in an Oxford College. This social preoccupation came honestly from him; it was not part of a put-up job for the election. He despises the "ins" and identifies himself with the disadvantaged "outs." His roots are still in the lower middle-class; his philistine tastes too.

In 1934 when Wirral Grammar School, Bebington, was only three years old, Wilson was the sixth form's only pupil. At school he could recite the entire list of England's prime ministers, complete with the precise date of each man's appointment.

His headmaster thought this faculty was inherited by Wilson from his father, who could multiply three figures in his head and give the answer immediately. . . . and who still, at the age of 81, can glance at a car number plate and rattle off the squares and cubes of each digit.

Wilson's original subject was history, and one of the masters at his school has recalled, "If he had followed his original inclination he would probably have been one of us. But at the last minute, as he was going to university, he decided to change to the study of economics."

In his Huyton constituency of miners, dockers, glass workers, table-makers and butlers (at Knowsley Hall, the seat of Lord Derby) Wilson is liked for his personal touch. Visiting Israel, nonconformist Wilson bought a plastic jerrycan, filled it with water from the River Jordan and carefully conveyed it home for churches in his constituency. On a Russian trip, he searched Moscow for a philatelist's shop, and for a set of the country's stamps, for the son of a Huyton schoolmaster.

It is true, of course, that he has been guilty of flagrant electioneering over better welfares, better wages, more protection, all things which will cost the country a lot, and he's going to be in real difficulty in facing these general assurances and dealing at the same time with an existing balance of payments crisis.

His remedies, modernizing industry by technology and science to make it internationally competitive, are admirable but will take many years. And it is this year and next when the trouble will come.

He may be right in thinking he could never have got elected on an austerity ticket, but he has been singularly weak in facing the country with the gravity of the choices he has to make.

This lack of candor is particularly relevant to what he has been saying about the Commonwealth: the idea that Britain can again become a centre of power and authority by speaking for the whole Commonwealth and can solve its trading troubles through Commonwealth channels.

In fact his genuine objection to the profiteers in society is socially, not economically inspired. The protest has been there from the beginning of his career. He has told me himself how his Methodist background affected his human judgments; how he joined the Labor Club when he went to Oxford and was scandalized to see young men claiming to believe in world revolution and spending more on drink in a single evening than a working class family could earn for a whole week.

The kind of young men who went to the Oxford Union in "hunting pink" as their form of social protest shocked his radical susceptibilities (the thinks Philip Teynby was one of them). So he moved to the more serious-minded radicals he found in the Liberal Club.

"You might think this was a great parting of the ways," he told me. "Looking back now and seeing a choice between Socialist and Liberals. It might have been, but it didn't seem so at the time, perhaps because I was innocent. After all my family and the Methodist tradition came from Lib-Lab. The question of whether reform would best be advanced by a separate working class contingent in Parliament or by backing the Liberals against the Tories was my father's predicament. He worked as an agent for the young Churchill, then a Liberal."

Immediately after graduating Wilson remembers that he started spare time work for the Fabian Society under G. D. H. Cole. From Liberal to Fabian did not in any way seem a shift of principle. The point to emphasize about Wilson is that he believes in class war and really loathes the upper crust and despises their way of life and standards, but he is not a Marxist or a materialist.

He believes in the effective working of a mixed economy, immensely respects successful managers and technocrats in industry, but feels no instinctive urge towards public ownership or nationalization. His support for Clause 4, when that portion of Labor principles which committed the party to the means of production, distribution and exchange, caused a rift in the party in 1960, reflected his immediate prospect of winning power or "applying it."

He objected to the late Hugh Gaitskill both on Clause 4 and on defence because he thought the chance of getting Labor in could be achieved only by a maximum degree of co-operation on the practical level between all the people who wanted things changed. This does not mean he has no principles. He has strong reformist ones and believes Harold Wilson is the most competent man to alter the nature of British society and make it fairer, more open and more efficient.

Can one like him? He has little regard for personal relationships and has shown a singular lack of generosity in failing ever to pay tribute to Gaitskill. (All his campaign speeches mentioned only "that great Socialist, Nye Bevan.") If he uses his men for practical purposes of getting and maintaining power, their personal hopes and disappointments will leave him cold.

It is not true, however, that he has no friends. He has some private ones, e.g., an old family doctor from Liverpool who always stays at the Wilson home when he comes down to London, and some old Oxford friends, particularly one high Tory professor who is most cautious in keeping their frequent meetings secret. He has resisted any idea of singling out a political brains trust. He has refused to chum up or confide in any of his colleagues. The secretiveness is frightening and the degree of distrust and wariness among the Labor leaders could be counterproductive when it comes to managing an effective cabinet but Wilson is naturally secretive and reserved, a non-demonstrative man who rarely praises or blames his subordinates.

What he has forced himself to do, and did increasingly brilliantly during the campaign, has been to overcome this deep-rooted inhibition and puritanical dislike of making a spectacle of himself and managing to humanize his image.

In two ways he has endeavored himself to his public and managed to arouse a human response of which no one would have thought him capable. The first was by the free use of heavily sarcastic but often very funny jokes which were constantly repeated to different audiences. I watched him learning how to time the intonations and stops, and make the effective gestures. He gesticulates enormously during his peroration, e.g., "the Tories hope you will vote for them because you had three months sunshine which they hope you will think they gave you and three weeks' moonshine which they certainly did give you . . . There were endless variations on Home's economic illiteracy and on the Tory commercials of happy families.

After getting people to laugh he switched into a serious strain for the finale, whipping himself up into indignation and anger at the cruelties and injustices which make much better speaking material than the prosperity and the "You've-never-had-it-so-good" themes which Sir Alec had to adopt.

He believes in the effective working of a mixed economy, immensely respects successful managers and technocrats in industry, but feels no instinctive urge towards public ownership or nationalization. His support for Clause 4, when that portion of Labor principles which committed the party to the means of production, distribution and exchange, caused a rift in the party in 1960, reflected his immediate prospect of winning power or "applying it."

Hunger for Publicity

Distorted Images

By MAUN HERRON

THE matter of television's influence has not yet been fully determined. Is your child a delinquent because he watches the Untouchables or Peter Gunn?

Little boys, I know, hold another little boy by the arms while a third little boy punches him in the stomach. I have seen them do it also to little girls. They may not yet realize that while this is the way TV bookies' muggers pay off on uncollected losses, the proper TV way to beat up a woman is with a sweeping, back-handed swipe across the face. The debate about television's influence on the very young and on the older unstable continues.

The debate that is yet to begin with any measure of seriousness is what the contemporary necessity for publicity is doing to us. We used to have no choice but to confront one another with our persons and our work and to survive, be diminished or enlarged by the consequences. Now we sell images.

Not too many of these images bear much relation to the truth. We are becoming—no, we have become—the vigorous peddlers of distorted images.

This is why honest reporters are at the moment taking so much abuse from angry politicians. Since limits were imposed upon Gush Street newspapers' political reporting has steadily improved. It was never better than it is today.

Apart from the emotional structure of the persons concerned—many are of a cast of mind that can tolerate only adulation of their candidate—there is another reason for their shrill lament. It is rooted in the chronic appetite for publicity that now presses heavily upon every sort of enterprise. The identification has been created in those who want or think they need or merit public notice, a quite inexplicable assumption: that the only honest or acceptable publicity is that which presents their own image of themselves.

But publicity is sought whether or not it contributes anything of value to the enterprise on hand. It is sought now for the own sake. It has also become evidence of existence in a clamorous society and it is possible to doubt one's own existence or the value of any undertaking, on which we may be engaged, unless others are made aware of our view of ourselves or of our undertaking.

One of the most persistent agonizing reappraisers of its public image in our society is the church. Few presbyteries have been spared the pointless debates about the need for public relations officers, press secretaries or whatever other vehicle will serve the purpose. It is almost impossible to

From the Scriptures
Only fear the Lord, and serve him in truth with all your heart; for consider how great things he hath done for you.—1 Samuel, 12:24.

Teachers' Salaries
I am convinced that the only fair method would be to have a universally applied tax. Let everybody carry their fair share of the burden. I am tired of having well-to-do people give nothing, or perhaps "generously" hand me $1 (for 24 children) while people with much less of this world's funds give beyond their means. Let's catch everybody equitably and efficiently with a tax.

Our Readers' Views
"poor are always with us" is no longer valid. The unemployed, the indigents, the sick, etc., are all our collective responsibility. We are sovereign and the exercise of this sovereignty we have trusted to our elected representatives in the legislative buildings in Victoria. Are these betraying our trust in not carrying out their duties, and tacitly allowing others to do their work for them?

W. S. E. MORRISON,
Temple Rd., Parksville.
Red Feather
In the Oct. 11 issue you published a letter from R. Wormald who proposed that a Red Feather Club be organized in which membership would be sold as a means of financing the Red Feather charities. Instead of canvassing for funds from door to door. This proposal should be studied by the Red Feather officials. It seems to have much to recommend it.

However, such a scheme will not completely solve the problem. Canvassing on any plan is not going to be a satisfactory method of financing these splendid organizations. Let's face it. The only way to do it properly is through taxes.
Taxes are never popular but neither is begging from door to door. After many years of experience in this work I have be-publicize the essentials of the church's life. They have neither reportable shape nor impact, for the most part; and wise know that this in fact is the essence of their nature and one of the signs of their professional value. But the discussion goes on.

In the multitude of religious journals that gush from the presses, the distorted image can be seen at its most obvious and untrue. Reported and illustrated with a naive excitement and in language borrowed from the vocabularies of the military, the athlete and the adventurers, the organizationally small enterprises of the church in (for example) foreign aid and disaster relief are blown out of their dimension and infected with artificial excitement where publicable excitement does not exist.

They are symptoms of a hunger and thirst after publicity that makes the telling of the story rather than the value of the event, the first and often the only consideration.

One of the regrettable consequences of this climate is that the noise of battle is more important than the battle as its outcome. We are becoming a universal Dublin coffee house, cluttered with writers who want to be seen and known as men of letters but who expose only their personalities to public view, and never their output.

The practice of publicity as a way of life has flooded the public view with "personality" who have "talent" imposed upon them by the technicians' skill, or, lacking the adhesiveness even for that, exploit bad manners, grotesque incompetence or a brass neck, and rely on the press agent to preserve them. Without the neurotic and universally accepted role of publicity in our day, these people would still be thumping typewriters in steno pools or balancing trays in beer parlors.

Hidden somewhere under this mass of mess are the people the knowing ones dismiss as freaks. J. D. Salinger, for example, is an unquestionable freak in our terms because he can never be found except by his friends and has made his house and garden deep proof. At sustained intervals he sends out the work accomplished in secret and says "buy it or don't." It is a reassuring exception.

Saul Bellow, one of the most fully gifted writers of our time, has what the publicists would call the big time on personal coverage with his (I think) eighth novel and is a great personal disappointment to the press agents. He is the sort of man who "just works." He has no publicizable views on anything, from politics to theories of composition, and he doesn't read literary criticism because he can't understand it. He has no gimmick. He "just works."

There must be hidden behind all the noise, a great many men and women gifted in their own spheres, who "just work" and derive from it a decent living and all the rich awareness of being.

Bless 'em all. They might well be the redemptive ones of our time.

ROYAL VISIT
It was an aching, dreary time we endured awaiting a safe return of our Queen to England. It is astounding to recall this anxiety that superseded our natural and proud joy at her presence in Canada. There remains much to forgive! And saddening is the realization that some Canadians will never "live it down." There remain, however, bright recollections such as the durable French warmth and protection given our Canadian Governor-General and Mme. Vanier who tread a path out the and beyond discontented factions; there remained the Red Ensign plumed its proud message over Canada; and our innocent children, uncontaminated by advanced (?) thought, were chosen to offer to our Sovereign that essence of happy infancy distilled from that of their parents.

That Her Majesty chose to come to Canada in such a moment of history is a further and more poignant reminder of the role of the Queen in the new future. Long may she reign!

Huge Telescope Slated For Site Near Oliver

By IAN STREET

The world's second largest telescope, Canada's gift to the Queen on her recent visit, will be built on a mountainside southwest of Oliver, it was learned here Friday.

A cabinet order placing a reserve on property in the southwest Okanagan appeared to end speculation as to which of five sites under consideration in B.C. and Alberta would be picked for the new observatory.

The $10,000,000 installation will have a mirror 150 inches in diameter, second only to the 200-inch Hale telescope on Mount Palomar in California.

The request for reservation of all mineral rights on the site of several square miles came from Ottawa.

No reservations have been applied for in this province for any of the other sites under consideration. So far as B.C. is concerned, this is to be the site.

If the federal government goes ahead as expected, the new telescope will be located near the existing radio telescope at Penticton, forming a new major complex for astrophysical research in western Canada.

World's Largest

When it was built in 1918, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain was the world's largest with a 72-inch telescope.

In 1935 a 74-inch telescope was built at the University of Toronto.

A booklet issued by the federal government describing the new Queen Elizabeth II Observatory said it would be located at "the most favorable astronomical location in Canada."

The site must be at least 4,000 feet in elevation, away from industrial development and large population centres, with low rainfall and clear skies.

"The above requirements," the booklet said, "point strongly to the mountains adjoining the desert regions of southern B.C."

It added: "It is envisioned that Canadian telescopes now employed at other locations for stellar photometry, solar astronomy, and meteor astronomy, will in time be moved to the new location where their effectiveness will be increased."

Located in Suburbs

A spokesman for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here said movement of other Canadian telescopes to a new site would not apply to the observatory here, but referred to the observatory in Ottawa and probably the observatory at the University of Toronto.

He said in Ottawa's case 14-storey apartment buildings were being built around the observatory and the University of Toronto's observatory was now located in the Toronto suburbs.

He said Victoria would have to expand considerably before any thought was given to moving Little Saanich Mountain observatory.

The move would not be considered for at least 20 years, if at all, he said.

He declined to confirm that the site in southwest Oliver was the site chosen for the Queen Elizabeth II Observatory. "Any announcement as to the site will come from the prime minister," he said.

Quebec Liberals Forming New Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Favreau said in a television interview Friday night that a new federal Liberal association for Quebec will be formed at a meeting in Quebec City Monday.

He said founding committees will draft a constitution and make plans for a convention to be held in January or February.

Mr. Favreau, Prime Minister Pearson's Quebec lieutenant, was interviewed on the French network of the CBC by Jean-Luc Pepin, Liberal MP for Drummond-Arthabaska and parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Sharp.

The minister said the formation of the new Quebec organization does not represent a split away from the provincial Liberals, but rather a strengthening of Liberal forces.

Company Evicting Union

BRITANNIA BEACH (CP) — Anaconda Copper Company of Canada Limited has ordered striking miners at its Britannia Beach operations 30 miles north of Vancouver to vacate the union hall.

The eviction order, effective Oct. 30, was received Friday by the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers, on strike since last August.

Union president Ken Smith said the workers would fight the order.

"We've had the building for 21 years," he said. "We couldn't possibly get out by the deadline suggested by the company."

Mine manager B. B. Greenlee said the hall is actually a community theatre and will continue to be used for community functions.

Strike Threatens CNR Main Line

EDMONTON (CP) — The possibility of a work stoppage this weekend on the main east-west line of the Canadian National Railways arose Friday.

As CNR employees protested a company plan to run trains to Biggar, Sask., without changing crews.

G. R. Graham, CNR vice-president, mountain region, said the run-through proposal only affects conductors and trainmen and was not in violation of union working agreements with railway.

STRIKE ILLEGAL. In a press release Friday night Mr. Graham announced a strike or other work stoppage would be illegal and this, he said, was acknowledged by the general chairman and local chairmen of the (union) organization.

Navy's New System Aims at Stability

By DON GAIN
A whole new manpower system for Canada's navy will start Dec. 1.
First enlistment period has already been increased to five years from three. Details of the five-year employment period have been worked out and will take effect under the name of the Cyclic System. Many of the details were suggested by navy men.
The new system resulted from a review this year headed by Rear Admiral W. M. Landymore.

Four Phases
Main feature of the system is to use ships and men in cycles of 16 months. The cycles are divided into four phases, one for organizing, one for training, one for operating at full effectiveness and one for a gradual tapering off.
The system is expected to insure greater efficiency and a more sustained working relationship between ships and men, and should give naval personnel a more stable calendar of activities during their enlistment period.

Other recommendations include introduction of a basic four-to-six-week trade indoctrination course before men start on-the-job training; the training of all men to a certain level, made possible by the longer service and the establishment of an intermediate level of tradesmen as the "centre of gravity" in the user/maintainer concept.

Many Trades
The user/maintainer concept was introduced at the suggestion of the 1957 Tidall committee. Instead of separate user and maintainer specialists, men are now trained as both in many trades.
Following recommendations by the Tidall committee on the personnel structure of the navy in 1957, major changes in recruiting, training, promotions and advancement were made in 1959.
The navy decided to review its changes after they had been in force for five years.
A personnel review team under Rear Admiral Landymore was convened this year to make a progress report. The team also was directed to make any recommendations that might improve efficiency.

Every officer or man who wished to do so was encouraged to present, in writing, his comments or criticisms of the system and to appear before the committee.
There were 215 submissions and 102 officers and men appeared before the committee.

Mixed Feeling
It became apparent there was mixed feeling over the present system and that the problems related directly to the use of manpower and trade skills and the high rate of turnover of men in ships.
The most pressing problem was because it has been difficult to allocate men for training without interfering with the tours of duty of men in ships and establishments.

To overcome this situation the committee made recommendations including the lengthening of a man's initial engagement from three to five years.
"This was suggested by the men themselves," the admiral said.

Longer Period
Major benefit of the new system is the development of predictable opportunities for early training through the lower trade groups. A man, once trained, will then have a longer period of uninterrupted work at his trade in one ship.
He will have a greater identification with his ship and his department.

In Phase I of the new system a ship is maintained and personnel are trained. Men can be moved in and out of the ship during this time.
Phase II is spent on work-ups, squadron exercises and probably a cruise. Ship's efficiency grows and there is no transfer of personnel.

Ships will be at their highest state of operational readiness in Phase III, the Fleet Phase, and will be used on large-scale operational exercises. They will be the first to be called in an emergency and crew members will not be transferred.
The Personnel Assistance Phase, Phase IV, is a period of gradual lessening of the ship's operational availability.
Some men may be withdrawn early for courses which are too long to be accommodated in the four months of Phase I. During this period the ships will be used for cadet training, showing the flag at local festivities, schools relations cruises and certain trials projects.

All available ships will be divided into four groups and only one group will be in a particular phase at one time.
Within Reach
In an emergency fully operational ships in the Fleet Phase (III) can be augmented by ships in the Workup Phase (II) or by ships in the Personnel Assistance Phase (IV).
The operational commander will thus have one-quarter of his ships in the highest state of efficiency with another half within reach of a similar state at very short notice.

The cyclic system has its advantages for the individual. He can count on a definite program of employment and trade advancement over a five-year period, automatic courses to upgrade his trade, four months in harbor at the end of every year's service afloat and 12 months with the same crew.
"It's the biggest leg up for a long time," Admiral Landymore said. "We can now introduce training measures."

Ships' companies and draft orders should be announced by Dec. 1. Fleet activity until Jan. 18 will be reduced and personnel will be exchanged between Jan. 4 and 15.

'Bestial Killings' Denied

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto man, who the Soviet news agency Tass claims directed "mass bestial reprisals" against Russian citizens during the Second World War in the Ukraine, says he is the victim of a Communist smear and that he has a clear conscience.

Dmytro Kupiak, 41, was named Friday by Tass as a "war criminal". Tass said he led the Ukrainian nationalist organization during the war and killed "women, children, and elderly people".

Mr. Kupiak said in an interview Friday that the Soviet gov-

FOUGHT FOREIGNERS

He said that he had joined the Ukrainian nationalist organization before the Second World War. He described this group as dedicated to fight any foreign power that controlled the Ukraine.

He said when the Germans invaded his country in 1941 his group turned their efforts to throwing out the Nazis. Mr. Kupiak said at this stage the group turned from being an "underground resistance movement" to a guerrilla army.

'KILLED NKVD MEMBERS'

When the Russians returned in the wake of the Red Army, Mr. Kupiak said the organization concentrated on eliminating the Communists.

"We didn't deliberately kill soldiers," he said, "only members of the NKVD (secret police) and political commissars."

Tass makes charges of killing civilians.

Mr. Kupiak denies this, stating that often innocent by-standers were killed in raids on police stations. He insists this was not intentional. He said he sincerely regretted it.

RELATIVES KILLED

All his relatives were either killed or sent to labor camps in northern Russia, he said. He fled to West Germany in 1946. He went to England and then to Canada in 1948. In 1954 he became a Canadian citizen.

"I regret nothing I did in the Ukraine. I have a clear conscience. I was fighting for freedom."

Cobble Hill Boy

Cement Ring Believed Killer

COBBLE HILL — A preliminary report Friday from a pathologist in Victoria indicated a nine-year-old Cobble Hill boy died the day before under a big cement ring, it was learned last night.

Funeral services for Gregory William Shearing, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shearing of Telegraph Road, will be held from the Hirst chapel in Duncan at 3 p.m. today.

The boy, third oldest of the Shearings' six sons, was found dead in an open field near his home after a search began when he was reported missing about 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

EXTENSIVE INJURIES

Police said the youngster suffered extensive head injuries and, while it was not certain how he died, they were convinced the heavy cement ring had rolled over him.

The pathologist's report was requested following a report of hunters shooting in the area during the time the boy was missing.

NOT SHOT

But Const. H. D. Bowyer of the Shawnigan Lake RCMP detachment said a preliminary report from the pathologist stated the boy had not been shot.

Police learned Gregory and an unidentified 11-year-old playmate had been playing in a field where several large cement rings used to reinforce well are located.

The other boy left for home before Gregory and, when he left, Gregory was standing atop one of the rings.

The youngster had been a diabetic for several years, and when he did not return home, his parents feared he might have gone into a coma.

SEARCH STARTED

They started a search party which was joined by a police dog from Nanaimo.

The body was found about 7:15 by Orval Maxwell of Telegraph Road, a school teacher and a neighbor of the Shearings.

The police said Gregory was found inside a cement ring, with his jacket sleeve pinned underneath. They said the ring had been rolled down a slope from its original location after logs used to support the rings had been removed.

Gregory was a student at Bench Elementary School.

Police had not decided at last report whether an inquest or an inquiry would be held.

Victorians Back Plea By Thant

UN Secretary-General U Thant's call for a conference of nuclear powers, including China, for 1965 has met with a warm response by the Victoria Voice of Women.

"Such a conference would be most appropriate for International Co-Operation Year," said Victoria V.O.W. president Mrs. Mira Yarwood.

GOOD EXAMPLE

The United Nations have unanimously passed a resolution declaring 1965 international co-operation year, and the example of co-operative action for peace among the nuclear powers could establish an example and an atmosphere for all the peoples of the world.

Mrs. Yarwood, who is also national vice-president of V.O.W., said she was "horrified" at China's detonation of an atomic bomb, but "heartened" by the Chinese call for a summit conference to ban nuclear weapons.

Daylight Time Ends Tonight

Who said you can't turn back the clock? According to the two leading libraries in town, nobody did.

But Victorians, and everybody else in B.C., can do—in fact, must do—exactly that, sometime tonight to get back to standard time for another winter.

A reporter, seeking Friday night to find some way to illustrate this backward flight in time, asked the public library and the University of Victoria's reference library who did say you can't turn back the clock.

After time-consuming searches through the stacks, the librarians said the closest thing they could come up with was, of all things, "You can't turn back the hands of the clock," from The Case of the Turning Tide, a 1941 epic by Eric Stanley Gardner.

Perry Mason or not, Victorians better do it tonight—2 a.m. Sunday is supposed to be the right time—or they'll lose an hour's sleep and will be ahead of standard when daylight saving time is over.

Turn of the Tide

Victory Almost Won In Battle of Rats

Sidney's rat-killer Eleanor is winning the Battle of the Rodents, and predicts victory is near.

Rats have had Mrs. Eleanor Robinson's home at 9545 Canora Road under siege for a few weeks, but the tide is turning.

"I think I'm winning," the 62-year-old widow said Friday. "A few more days and I should have them all cleaned out."

FEEDING POISON Mrs. Robinson has been feeding the rats poison for about 10 days.

She says that at first the family of rats nesting nearby invited all their friends to dine at Robinson's home for wayward rats.

Killer May Die 44 Years Late

Mrs. Jordan

AKRON, Ohio — A convicted murderer, who missed a date with the electric chair 44 years ago may still be forced to keep the date. Leroy Marion Dunlap, 64, has been hiding his real identity since he escaped from jail May 12, 1920. Arrested in a soldiers' home in Washington, he waived extradition and returned to Akron. It is believed that only intervention by the state governor or a new trial, should one be granted, could save Dunlap, who shot and killed a restaurant owner. He escaped two days before his trial and was convicted and sentenced in absentia.

PARIS — Mrs. Colia Jordan, 32, niece of the late dress designer Christian Dior, appeared in a French court Friday charged with plotting against the authority of the French state. She was released on provisional liberty until her trial. Her husband is the Fuehrer of the British Nazi Party.

BLANTYRE, Malawi — A tribal chief visiting Zomba as the guest of Prime Minister Dr. Hastings Banda was found hanged to death Friday in a vacant lot. African civil servants left work and went home for the second straight day, saying they wanted to protect their families. An unknown assailant with a shotgun critically injured the wife and five-year-old child of a civil servant Wednesday. Dr. Banda has not been seen outside his presidential palace for nine days.

LORETTO, Minn. — President J. H. Grinnell of the State Bank of Loretto noted the bank's 54th anniversary and remarked: "Thank God we haven't been held up." Within hours, three young gunmen took $8,000 from cash drawers, fired a warning shot and escaped in a station wagon.

ATHENS (AP) — A declaration that the U.S. 6th Fleet is not welcome in Piraeus, Greece, has cost John Frangoulis his job as deputy mayor. A Greek interior ministry council ruled that Frangoulis violated a code for municipalities that forbids political statements by city officials.

TEIGNMOUTH, England — This coastal community has started a fund to buy two local smugglers out of jail. Frank Evans and Gordon Hook are serving six months and face six more if they can't raise fine money totaling almost $8,000. They admitted smuggling 74,000 cigarettes and 268 bottles of liquor. Hotel proprietress Jean Symons, said: "I think it's the town's duty now to pay the fine because the smugglers expose has boosted the tourist trade here tremendously."

MEXICO CITY — Showers of colored paper, floral decorations, cheers and shouts of "Viva Felipe" greeted Prince Philip Friday when he toured a new state housing project in the Mexico City suburb of Unidad Independencia. One girl tried to throw her arms around him but was swept aside by security guards. Another called "To Quiero, Felipe" (I love you, Philip).

LUTON, England — After fellow employees accused bus driver Frank Smarzyk of writing a letter which resulted in a police probe of working hours, they vowed not to work with him. The United County Omnibus Co. told Mr. Smarzyk to stay home, at full pay.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Police Friday arrested Johnny Plant on suspicion of grand larceny in the theft of $1,000 worth of plants from a nursery.

LONDON — Alan Arthur Gwynne-Jones, defence counsel of the Times of London since 1961, has been appointed minister of state for foreign affairs and will deal with disarmament matters in the Foreign Office.

ROME — A Rome court Friday heard final arguments in the case for annulment of Sophia Loren's marriage to producer Carlo Ponti. A verdict is expected in several months. The couple were married by proxy in Mexico in 1957 after Mr. Ponti won a Mexican divorce from his first wife. State prosecutor Martino Ferrajolo is seeking the annulment on grounds the Mexican divorce is not valid in Italy.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller has won custody for two months a year of the four children she gave up to marry New York's Governor. She also was given custody of the children for brief holiday periods each year.

Survey Almost Ready

Greater Victoria's long-awaited traffic survey is still a few weeks from completion.

Tony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said Friday the survey consultants, Traffic Research Corporation of Toronto, are now preparing final recommendations. The survey, which began in September last year will show present and projected traffic patterns and needs for the Greater Victoria area.

Provincial government action on Patricia Bay Highway is expected to be based on recommendations of the survey.

Jeered by Students

Socialist Falls Short In University Debate

Don Poirier, young Socialist who kept University of Victoria students engaged in heated discussion for five hours two years ago, managed to hold their attention for only two hours Friday.

One of debating society's "soapbox" speakers, he addressed students on the lawn in front of the student union building at noon.

Citing capitalism, which, he said, is worldwide, as the cause of war, Mr. Poirier said that world leaders are like "billy goats in a slaughter-house leading sheep to their death."

WEALTH FOR PARASITES — Students are attending university, he said, because industry needs "brains and brawn to produce wealth for a microscopic minority of parasites."

Mr. Poirier drew frequent jeers and laughter from the students gathered around him.

WATER FREE — Students clapped when someone brought Mr. Poirier a glass of water. "You clap because water is free," he said. "You don't begrudge someone else water, no matter how much he has."

"Have you paid your water bill lately," a student yelled.

'Island Economy Booming'

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The economy of Vancouver Island has never been in better shape according to Bill Munro, Victoria investment dealer who has just returned from a tour of the Island's leading industrial operations.

Mr. Munro is in charge of the sale of Canada Savings Bonds by payroll deduction in this area, and he has visited some 60 firms who provide their employees with this service.

"There is little doubt in my mind that savings bonds sales on the Island this year will be between 15 and 20 per cent higher than a year ago," he said.

Last year Island employees bought $1,821,000 worth of savings bonds by payroll deduction.

The booming pulp and paper industry is responsible for much of the increased savings.

Harmac, the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River pulp mill near Nanaimo, is already 25 per cent up from last year with the final figure not yet available.

Elk Falls, the Crown Zellerbach pulp and paper plant at Campbell River, is already up 10 per cent on last year.

Several other groups who are over last year's total are British American Paint Company, Oak Bay Municipality employees and Nanaimo School District No. 68.

"I am greatly impressed with the development and expansion which is going on everywhere," said Mr. Munro.

GARMENT DEAL
A plan to merge the activities of three female garment manufacturing companies has fallen through.

The deal whereby two Montreal firms, Lingene Manufacturers Dorsey Canada Ltd. and Intimate Apparel Inc., planned to buy control of Exquisite Form Brassiere failed to materialize when the owners of the two Montreal firms found they were unable to get sufficient shares in Exquisite to give them control.

Exquisite Control is held by the U.S. parent company and its president Garson Reiner of New York.

An issue of $20,000,000 six per cent debentures is being made by Husky Oil Canada Ltd. at par to yield six per cent. The bonds are to mature in 1984.

UTICA MINE
T. Eric Moir of Weston Bakeries Ltd., Vancouver, has been elected to the board of directors of the Bakery Council of Canada. Mr. Moir was formerly Weston manager in Victoria.

Utica Mines Ltd. plans to construct a 100 tons mill at its silver property near Kermeos and hopes to be in production next summer. Andrew Robertson, managing director, says a road has been constructed into the mill and an exploration program is under way.

TREASURY BILL RATE
The Government of Canada sold its 91 days treasury bills Thursday to a yield of 3.70 per cent, up .01 per cent from the previous week.

MERGER OPPOSED
The U.S. Justice department is taking court action against the acquisition by Standard Oil of New Jersey of the Potash Company of America as an offence against the anti-trust law.

If the deal is permitted NONJ will not only be the biggest oil company but also the biggest potash manufacturer in the U.S.

Swim Classes

City Men Fight Shy Of Water

YM-YWCA physical director Art Burgess is offering a different method of learning to swim in an effort to get men off the couch and into the water.

There are more than 1,100 registered in the fall swim classes, but all of them are in the boys and girls, teen-age, and women's classes.

Not a male has signed up for one of three weekly classes which can accommodate up to 65 people.

NEW APPROACH
The different approach for men is called the "businesslike and methodical approach."

"With kids we use the play and fun angle to get them to like water," said Mr. Burgess. "But with men we find the businesslike and methodical approach much more effective."

"If a man started swimming now, he could be performing confidently by this spring," said Mr. Burgess.

Firemen Butt Blaze

A fire which started at the base of a telephone pole at 158 Robertson was quickly snuffed out by the city fire department Thursday night.

Firemen said the blaze started when a cigarette butt was thrown in a pile of leaves at the bottom of the pole.

Flood Waters Of Nass Drop

TERRACE (CP)—The Nass River dropped back to near normal water levels Wednesday after a day of flooding brought on by heavy weekend rains in north-central British Columbia.

The swollen waters damaged five houses and mobile homes along the river 70 miles north of here.

Individualist Fined After Giving In To Number System

A Saanich man who had refused to complete a National Employment Service form last month changed his plea to guilty and was fined $15 and costs in city magistrate's court Friday.

George Corbin, of Durran Road, told Magistrate William Ostler he had thought the information card had to do with a pension plan application in which he was not interested.

It was actually a form to record a changeover in the unemployment insurance numbering by the federal government. Old-style letter, prefix numbers have been replaced by new all-number records to facilitate computer handling of future records, said NES spokesman L. W. Sonnenberg.

The numbering system now designates the identification as social insurance numbers. There is no positive indication they will have any function in proposed Canada Pension operation, said the official.

Magistrate Ostler asked whether there was a minimum fine in the matter and was told there is a maximum fine of $500 provided for in the law. It also makes it mandatory for anyone insurable under the Unemployment Insurance Act to fill in the form.

"Things that are compulsory in this country are compulsory," he said.

Government Chooses Bank Site

The cabinet has approved a $50,000 purchase of property in the downtown block of Vancouver, bounded by Robson, Smythe, Hornby and Howe. The block south of the courthouse will be used for additional court facilities, government offices, and the headquarters of the proposed Bank of B.C.

POOL RESOURCES

Cornell University in the U.S. and Australia's University of Sydney are to pool more than $13,500,000 worth of space exploration equipment, and interchange staffs.

Defectors Flee In Both Directions

From AP Reports

TOKYO—Almost every recent Olympic Games somebody decides to defect from an Iron Curtain country to the West. This year was no different—a Hungarian paddler and two Hungarian tourists fled from Tokyo to Seattle Friday.

However, the Communists got one back. A Nationalist Chinese marksman told Tokyo police he wanted safe passage to Communist China where he could rejoin his parents.

Officials said he likely would get clearance if it can be definitely established that he had in no way been coerced in making his decision.

International Amateur Athletic Federation has again voted down Soviet proposals to lift a ban against athletes who participated in the Games of the New Emerging Forces last year.

However, the IAAF has decided that East and West Germany may send separate teams to the next Olympic Games.

Two members of the Bulgarian team decided that Tokyo was as good a spot as any to get married. So they did, complete with a Shinto ceremony that followed a civil ceremony in their embassy the night before.

The Japanese, who so looked forward to the Games and made such elaborate preparations toward their success, now look upon the venture with mixed feelings.

The much smaller than expected influx of tourists have made many hotelmen and restaurant operators bitter. They expected about 130,000 visitors where only 13,000 or 14,000 appeared.

Everybody stays home and watches the events on television, causing even further inroads into normal business operations.

Leafs, Canucks Back on Stage Fight For Third

An old Western Hockey League rivalry, which should be enhanced by having third place as spoils for the winner, resumes at Memorial Arena tonight when Vancouver Canucks put in their first appearance of the season.

	P	W	L	T	Pts
Los Angeles	6	4	2	0	18
Seattle	4	2	0	13	8
Portland	4	2	0	13	8
VICTORIA	3	2	3	0	11
Vancouver	2	0	12	0	4
San Francisco	0	2	4	0	2

Last night's scores: Los Angeles 4 at Vancouver 3; San Francisco 4 at Seattle 2.

Next games: Tonight—Vancouver at VICTORIA; San Francisco at Portland; Los Angeles at Seattle.

Catch Guyle Fielder

Possibly younger legs will make the difference for someone else before the season is over but, once more, Guyle Fielder is the man to beat for the Western Hockey League scoring championship.

League champion for six of the past eight years and seven times in his 10 WHL seasons, Fielder is away to another good start. The slight Seattle centreman, who will be 34 next Nov. 21, has ten points for his first six games and shares the lead with Los Angeles veteran, Leo LaBine.

Fielder's single goal and nine assists gives him a lifetime total of 281 goals and 873 assists for 1,154 WHL points in 816 games.

Pushing the trio at the top are two Victoria Maple Leafs and Tom McVie of Portland Buckaroos. Each has seven points.

Two New Coaches Sign with Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane, new manager of New York Yankees, named Vern Benson and Cot Deal as coaches Friday.

Frank Crossetti and Jim Hegan will be held over, Keane said. Crossetti has spent 33 seasons with the Yankees as player and coach, while Hegan has been in charge of the bullpen since 1960.

Benson was third base coach under Keane for St. Louis Cardinals this season and Deal was pitching coach for Houston Colts. He replaces Whitey Ford, the star southpaw, who was both pitcher and pitching coach.

The Yankees said Ford relinquished the coaching job voluntarily. Jimmy Gleason, the Yankees' first base coach, has been offered a job in the Yankee organization as a scout.

No Decision Ready Yet On Yankee-CBS Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department said Friday it is still looking into the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System and had not yet decided whether to advise for or against the deal.

The Justice Department statement followed a report by a high baseball source that baseball commissioner Ford Frick — on advice of the department's anti-trust division — would rule out the sale within the next week or 10 days. The report was denied by Frick.

REPORT 'SLY'
Frick called the report "completely sly" and said, "I have not talked to anybody about any such thing."

Canada's Hockey Improves

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Father David Bauer, who is helping to train the Canadian national hockey team for the 1968 Olympics, says the team will be able to compete with any hockey team below the National Hockey League level within two years.

"I'm happy to say our hockey prospects have improved to that point," he said.

ON PHILOSOPHY

Father Bauer, helping Gordon Simpson of Winnipeg with training, suggested Canada got what it deserved when hockey prestige over the years deteriorated. The main deterioration was in Canada's amateur hockey philosophy, he said.

Three different philosophies of sport are represented by teams in Olympic hockey competition, said Father Bauer, who coached Canada's last Olympic team.

WE KNOW IT

"The athletes of the Communist countries feel they are using their lives the best way they can to further the political ideology they believe in. They are professionals and we know it."

A similar philosophy is expressed by countries with great nationalistic pride, such as Japan, he said.

Father Bauer said many Europeans are amazed at the joy our boys get out of the game. "But we feel we are trying to develop personalities as well as trying to win."

WANTS ANSWERS

It also was learned here that Cronin has sent a questionnaire to all American League clubs to learn where a conflict of interest would exist if the purchase were allowed.

The questionnaire requires the members to furnish names and addresses of all owners, stockholders, officials and other personnel including players; advise whether each individual has any CBS stock, whether subsidiaries have any CBS stock, and whether any trustees or partners or others have any CBS stock.

QUITE LATE

"We'll have to send out about 1,400 letters to answer this," Chicago White Sox owner Arthur C. Allyn said. "This is what we've been demanding Cronin should do."

"CBS is supposed to do this, and it's quite late for the American League to be doing it."

Cronin, in Boston, had no comment on the report Friday and Frick's telephone was reported "out of order."

Plays Tonight

First-string Victoria Chinook centre, Ken Gregory, will be ready for action as Chinooks meet North Shore in their first game of the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League tonight at Central Junior High School starting at 8:30 p.m. Preliminary game starts at 7:15.

Vics Near Cup Game

Mount View	4	2	2	0	4
Oak Bay	4	2	2	0	4
Esquimalt	4	1	3	0	2
Mount Douglas	4	1	3	0	2

Victoria High took a big step closer to the Bridgeman Cup blanking Esquimalt, 2-0, while Oak Bay moved in closer to second place with a 3-1 victory over Mount View in Thursday's Inter-High Girls' Grass Hockey League games.

Sheila Hagert and Synnove Lauvaas scored for the high flying Vic High team.

Pat Smith, Sue Evans and Lynn Hagglund scored Oak Bay's goals and Connie Baker was the Mount View marksman.

To Wash Away Fog Threat

Lions Hoping for Rain

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Fog, an old autumn antagonist of sport in Vancouver, threatened Friday to force postponement of a Western Football Conference game.

But officials of the British Columbia Football Association

Columbia Lions took heart from an encouraging noon forecast that has hung over low-lying areas for three days.

The weather will be cooler but for the kickoff between the fourth-place Eskimos and Calgary Stampede, who are one point back of the Lions.

Only Calgary can catch the league leaders now that Saskatchewan has fallen five points off the pace.

CAN CLINCH FIRST

B.C. can clinch first place and a bye into the playoff finals with any combination of B.C. wins and Calgary losses adding up to two. That means Calgary must win tonight and again in its home stand against B.C. next Wednesday, and hope for a B.C. loss tonight or in the conference's final game next Saturday against Winnipeg.

Optimism was the word in Edmonton, where Coach Neil Armstrong was rewarded for his rebuilding job this season by a new two-year contract. He promised Eskimos would prove tonight they are "a legitimate contender."

However, a Toronto win, combined with an Ottawa Rough Riders victory over Montreal Alouettes Sunday, would send the four-team conference battle right to the wire.

The powerful Tiger-Cats, with a two-point margin over second-place Rough Riders, need only one more win to wrap up their fourth successive EFC championship. The two points for Hamilton would settle the standings, placing Ottawa second, Montreal third and Toronto fourth and out of the playoffs.

But, should Toronto upset the seven-point odds in favor of the Tcats, it would set the stage for a bitter struggle between Ottawa and Montreal. A win for Ottawa would deadlock Riders with Hamilton and leave Montreal in a tie for third spot with the Argos.

Argos conclude their schedule against Ottawa in Toronto next week while Montreal plays the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton.

move into the Vancouver area before game time, dispelling fog that has hung over low-lying areas for three days.

Stampede kept several limping players out of the lineup but dressed Bruce Claridge for limited action, his first since snapping a collarbone in Hamilton Sept. 15.

Roughriders kept quarterback Ron Lancaster on the bench for his third straight game to spare him aggravation of a rib injury. Bob Placek goes again in his place.

Lions were healthiest of all, missing only defensive halfback Steve Shafer, and pleased with the improvement in their blocking.

Coach Dave Skrien, whose off-season recruiting was a near-washout, has brought in four rookies since then and says the club is stronger now than early in the season.

"Every one of our new people has been an improvement over the previous man," he said.

Dark Hawk Dead

Dark Hawk, the most successful thoroughbred sire in B.C., died unexpectedly earlier this week at owner Al McLean's ranch in Aldergrange.

Sired by the great Alibhai, Dark Hawk was American bred and named after his one-time owner, Howard Hawks, former movie producer.

Dark Hawk was claimed to be worth more than $1,000,000 and he was the leading sire in B.C. this year, his progeny earning in the neighborhood of $125,000. About 30 of his sons and daughters raced at the recently completed Sandown Park meeting year.

Among his best-known offspring are Tyhawk, who set a world record for six and a half furlongs at Arizona Downs, and Lord Renraw and George Royal, horses of the year in B.C. this year.

An internal disorder, unknown to his owner, was apparently the cause of the 18-year-old Dark Hawk's sudden death.

Brave, Too

British Boxing Full of Game Losers

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP)—British boxers are getting used to having American champions pat them on the head and tell them how brave they are.

The latest of these is Brian Curvis who stood up to welterweight Emile Griffith for 15 rounds but lost on points.

It is 13 years since a world title came to Britain. Since then fans have had to make do with a stream of "the bravest" performances ever seen in a ring.

Griffith, a brutal and efficient craftsman from the Virgin Islands and the United States, chopped at Curvis round after round and finally took the decision. Then Curvis faced television cameras and said: "Griffith is a great champion."

Griffith replied ironically: "Curvis is a great challenger." That's the story of British prizefighters — always bridesmaids and never a bride.

Critics here say British boxers aren't hungry enough. Post-war affluence has produced a generation of boxers that lacks the harsh background from which most current world champions sprang. A quick look through the lists of world title holders shows most come from what nowadays are called the deprived or underprivileged nations and races.

Two white men, both from the Italian quarters of tough American cities, hold the light-heavyweight and middleweight titles. Others belong to men from Thailand, Brazil, Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the southern United States.

LACK FIGHT
British boxers rarely get to fight top Americans before a title attempt. There are rich purses available here for less difficult slugs.

The resulting lack of experience among British fighters tells badly when a title fight rolls around.

Griffith's manager said this after the fight against the Welsh contender here: "All Curvis lacks is the solid top-class experience on which Griffith has been brought up."

MAYBE TOO LATE
Curvis, British and Empire champion, presumably has beaten the best that Britain has to offer in that class. Accordingly promoter Jack Solomons says he will bring two or three Americans over to fight Curvis and prepare him for a return match with Griffith in Cardiff next summer.

But is it too late? Curvis is 27, probably too old to start learning the finer points of his craft.

"That is a task which should have been undertaken a few years ago, when, instead, he was running up a deceptively impressive list of victories over inferior opposition from this side of the Atlantic," says the Daily Telegraph.

TITLE FIGHT
World title fights are planned for light-heavyweight Terry Downes, lightweight Dave Charnley and featherweight Howard Winstone, all considered top British boxers.

But the odds seem to be that all three will end up as British prizefighters usually do — acclaimed as game losers.

Oak Bay, James Bay Collide

Oak Bay Farmer Construction meets James Bay Mustangs and Victoria Hornets and Nanaimo Redmen clash in the last of the scheduled Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League games Sunday.

The two Bay rivals tangle at Carnarvon Park starting at 2 p.m. and league-leading Redmen and last-place Hornets meet at the same time at Macdonald Park.

Mustangs have been winless in two previous starts against the Farmers but after last week's game Mustang coach Bob Coutts said, "I think now I finally found the depth in the club I've been looking for."

John Porter, vastly improved over the season will handle quarterback chores for the Mustangs while Bob Wicks will be doing the pitching for the Farmers.

When your family is young ...

their security is completely in your hands. Here are two Confederation Life Plans that provide the help every young father needs:

Confederation Life's Whole Life Plan

This plan protects your family at very low cost—provides the amount of money you choose as a lump sum or monthly income, or both. It builds substantial cash values and earns profitable dividends. For instance, a $10,000 Whole Life Policy begun at age 25 will have a cash value at age 65 of $5,640. Dividends, while not guaranteed, would provide an additional $7,230 if left to accumulate at current rates. Together, a $12,870 return on an investment of about $6,100! A tidy profit—over and above the security it gives your family!

The Family Protection Benefit

This is an economical means of providing extra income for your family. You add it to a permanent insurance plan, usually for as long as your children are dependent on you. Your family receives $100, $200 or more per month during the period of protection you select, followed by the face amount of the policy. The premiums are low. At age 25 for example, you can give your family the protection of an extra $100 per month for 20 years for as little as $20.80 per year. They get maximum protection at the lowest possible cost.

Talk to your Confederation Life man. He's trained to give you sound advice. He can show you how Confederation Life's insurance plans can provide money at any critical time of life. Phone him today. You'll find that a talk with your Confederation Life man is a step in the right direction.

Mormons Seeking Island Following

Twelve missionaries from the United States have come to Vancouver Island seeking conversions to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, commonly referred to as the Mormon Church.

"One hundred thousand were converted last year," said Elders Artie Miller and Lynn Stratford in reference to the endeavours of the church as a whole which has a total membership of more than 2,000,000.

"We believe in the same church that existed in the time of Christ, the same doctrine," said Elder Stratford, who, with Elder Miller heads the Vancouver Island mission.

RESTORED IN 1830

"When the apostles were killed in ancient times, the church collapsed. It was restored again through the prophet Joseph Smith in the year 1830."

"Our religion is to be lived seven days a week," added Elder Miller.

There is no paid ministry in the church. However, there are 13,000 ordained ministers throughout the world, such as the two elders interviewed, who give two years of their time, without pay, in voluntary missionary service.

DOOR-TO-DOOR

"Expenses are covered by the missionary's family, or he may work beforehand to get the money for the work," explained Elder Miller.

The two live in a Victoria apartment.

At 9:30 a.m. they start their contacts, visiting from door-to-door. They retire at 10:30 p.m. "It's pretty well a full-time job," they agreed.

Mormon services are held at the Victoria Chapel, 2990 Quadra Street, at 9:45 a.m. and 5 p.m. The public is welcome.

FLOWERS OF FIRE

Early Spanish mariners called California "Land of Fire" because of the flaming beauty of poppies blanketing the hills.

Transients Discussed

Lt. Col. Ernest Fitch, a Salvation Army leader with wide experience of the problems of the transient, homeless men at the army's many hostels across Canada will address a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 825 Johnson.

Foster Parents Topic of Talk

Brentwood churches have combined to sponsor a meeting for prospective foster parents and others interested in the foster parent program at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be held in Brentwood United Church, 7162 West Saanich Road.

The foster parent program in the lower Vancouver Island area is a responsibility of the Family and Children's Service, a Community Chest agency. Mr. and Mrs. John Petersen, foster parents for several years, will be guest speakers as will Mrs. Betty Bryant, a social worker.

Questions on the board rate paid to foster parents, clothing, policy, medical and dental arrangements, and the foster home study will be answered by Mrs. B. Levitz Packford and Mrs. Edith Frankham of the Family and Children's Service.

PILGRIMS' SITE

More than 1,000,000 pilgrims visit the Hindu holy city of Benares each year.

To Be Honored

Tomorrow is Bible Society Sunday in Victoria churches.

"Wherever the missionaries of our churches are at work they require the scriptures in the language of the people," said Mrs. H. Olden of the Victoria branch, Canadian Bible Society. "And 90 per cent of the people in the world depend on the Bible Society for their supply of literature."

Saanich Chooses Reeve, Councillor Today

This is it. The speeches have ended and the candidates are silent as Saanich voters head to the polls today.

The 13 polls open at 8 a.m. and 12 hours later counting will begin to decide who will be the Saanich reeve and who will sit in the vacant council seat.

More than 25,000 voters are eligible to cast ballots in today's by-election but a turnout of less than 40 per cent is expected. Only 22 per cent of the eligible voters turned out for last December's municipal election.

Saanich clerk Gordon Hayward, who doubles as returning officer, issued a final reminder to residents that only those listed on last year's list are eligible to cast ballots today.

The by-election was caused by the resignation of Reeve Stanley Murphy and electing a councillor became necessary when Hugh Curtis resigned his seat to contest the reeveship. Mr. Curtis is challenging businessman Edward Lum and dockyard chauffeur Lewis Haut for the reeve-

Hall Delights Staff

Big Switch 'Smooth As Silk'

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Still settling into their new quarters in Centennial Square after a move which went "smooth as silk," city hall employees for the most part were loud in their praises of the new civic centre.

"There is still lots to be done," said city manager Dennis Young Friday, "but everything is going swimmingly and, so far as I know, the staff is pleased with the new place."

Busy polishing brand new desks in the comptroller-treasurer's department, receptionist Linda Holtum agreed.

NO COMPLAINTS

"It's all right and I have heard no complaints in this department," she said. "It's clean and bright and airy and it should be a good place to work."

It will be business as usual on Monday morning, said comptroller-treasurer James Bramley.

"If a taxpayer wants to come in and leave some money for the city we will be right here to take care of him," he said.

FEW HITCHES

City assessor A. G. Joyce, whose department is at the front of the old building on Douglas Street, agreed.

"We are ready to go right now," he said Friday.

But there were a few hitches. When George Mertz, of the city clerk's department, was ready to move the department's voluminous records Friday, he found that the records room in the new building had just been painted.

There will be no transfer of records until late today or possibly, Sunday.

County Court

Jones to Face Trial Nov. 4

By IAN STREET

Nov. 4 has been tentatively set as opening date for the trial in County Court of suspended purchasing commission chairman George E. P. Jones on two charges of receiving unlawful benefits from a city car dealer.

Mr. Jones elected trial by judge without jury and the case will probably be heard by Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake.

RAIL SET AT $3,000

After his formal committal by Magistrate William Oatler in Saanich police court at 2 p.m. Friday bail was set at $3,000.

The magistrate said he had carefully considered the "forceful and persuasive" submission by defence counsel T. P. O'Grady that no evidence had been produced by the Crown to warrant committal on the charges.

EVIDENCE DISJOINTED

The evidence introduced by prosecutor Lloyd G. McKenzie, Q.C., was somewhat disjointed and desultory, the magistrate said, but this was perhaps due to the nature of the case.

He said "suspicions will never substitute for evidence" but at the preliminary stage it is not the responsibility of the magistrate to weigh evidence.

IN FAVOR OF COMMITTAL

The law requires that in cases where it is doubtful whether sufficient evidence has been presented at a preliminary hearing "any doubt in this respect should be exercised in favor of committal," magistrate Oatler said. The magistrate said his decision that the charges should "go to trial in an unresolved state" was in the best interests both of the accused and the general public.

NO DELAY

"I am convinced," magistrate Oatler said, "that there is evidence on which a jury, properly instructed, could convict."

He added that there would be no lengthy delay before trial which might heighten and prolong the uncertainty surrounding the case.

TAKING HOLIDAYS

Mr. Jones was relieved of his duties as purchasing commission chairman by cabinet order, but he has refused to accept this decision on the grounds that he is responsible only to the provincial legislature.

He is now taking holidays.

TWO CHARGES

Mr. Jones is charged with accepting unlawful benefits in the form of $1,577 forgiven on the payment for a 1963 Dodge sedan and obtaining an even trade later on a 1964 Dodge convertible.

Former city car dealer George K. Hankinson, who faces two charges in connection with the alleged transactions, also has elected trial by judge without jury.

Wyatts Robbed

While retired city manager C. C. Wyatt and Mrs. Wyatt were watching television Friday night a sly thief snatched up the fire escape at 821 Foul Bay Road and grabbed a wallet containing $12 and a transistor radio from the bedroom.

The thief, surprised by Mrs. Wyatt, ran full tilt out of the house and back down the way he arrived.

For School Building

Sooke to Vote Nov. 7 On $1,500,000 Bylaw

By BOB PETHICK

A $1,478,387 school building bylaw will go before the ratepayers of the Sooke school district Nov. 7.

The bylaw was formally approved by the education department this week and will be voted on after members of the Sooke school board visit area PTAs to outline how the money will be spent.

Largest portion of the money—$1,045,000—is to be used to purchase and construct school buildings.

HALF-SIZED GYM

Included are plans for a $360,000 junior high school in the Painter Road area, made up of four classrooms, a science room, commerce room, library, home economics room, industrial arts room and a half-sized gymnasium.

A new Savory elementary school will have six classrooms and an activity room, and money has been earmarked for a footbridge across nearby railway tracks. Building cost will be $135,000.

Additions to Belmont Senior Secondary School include a commerce room, science laboratory and two vocational buildings of reinforced concrete, costing $105,000.

NEW CLASSROOMS

Colwood elementary, Glenlake elementary, Millstream elementary and Saseneos elementary schools will each have two new classrooms and an activity room.

Other schools slated for additions are Edward Milne secondary, with a library, a home economic cooking lab and a sewing room, Langford elementary, conversion of an existing classroom as a library; Sooke elementary, one classroom and oil furnace conversion; Happy Valley elementary, activity room and administration area; Metchem elementary, two classrooms, and three offices and a washroom for the school board office.

A school board spokesman said Friday night the Sooke school district is one of the first in the province to prepare for the new program in senior secondary schools which is to start in September, 1965.

PAMPHLET ISSUED

A pamphlet issued by the board points out school enrolment in the district rose from 3,035 in 1963 to 3,350 in 1964, an increase of more than 10 per cent.

A number of schools in the district are overcrowded, making it necessary for temporary classrooms to be found.

Earmarked for furnishings and equipment for the new schools is $285,240, with $48,825 allocated for acquiring and developing school sites.

COSTS SHARED

Trustees point out capital expenditure for interest and principal is shared by the provincial government, which pays 75 per cent. Sooke school district residents pay the remaining 25 per cent.

The bylaw will add one and one-fifth mills to taxes which would mean a property owner in Langford who has a house assessed at $3,170 and lot assessed at $380 would have his taxes increased by $3.31.

In the Sooke area a house assessed at $5,025 on one-third acre of property assessed at $500 would have the taxes increased by $5.24.

School trustees say that in many instances the increased homeowner grant will cover the increase in taxes.

Sailing Club

The new slate of officers for the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association is: commodore, J. R. Sharpe; vice-commodore, Commander Larry Moffat; rear commodore, Lt.-Cdr. Jim Johnson; secretary, Lieut. David Messham.

'Good News'

Navy Work Hailed By Admiral

The upcoming multi-million-dollar naval construction program of the federal government is good news to the flag officer of the Pacific Coast as well as to Victoria shipyards.

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore said he is "more optimistic about the future of the navy today and more enthusiastic than I have ever been in the past."

VMD HAPPY

"This is good news," said Victoria Machinery Depot president Harold Hubbard.

No spokesman for Yarrow's Ltd. was available.

MORE OPTIMISTIC

"In talking with ships' companies in the Pacific Command," the admiral said, "I've told them that I have seen the reports prepared for the minister of national defence and that I'm more optimistic about the future of the navy today and more enthusiastic than I have ever been in the past."

"The very fact that the minister has announced that the program will be released within the next few days is news which I know will be received by everyone in the Pacific Command with tremendous enthusiasm."

FULFILL PROMISE

"Moreover, it makes good a promise that I've made to them that they won't have to wait much longer to find out what kind of a navy they will have in the future."

"It also makes good the promise to the command that when the program is announced it will include all the elements necessary for a well-balanced navy and that I know they will be very pleased with the program."

VERY IMPORTANT

Mr. Hubbard said, "It is very important to the continuing operation of the shipyards that such a program be announced and contracts let because of the planning time necessary."

"VMD's work load for 1965 is good but we have no shipbuilding work of any kind under contract after the end of 1965. We are delighted."

Stirling

City's New Admiral 'Delighted to Be Here'

Victoria's new admiral Friday said he is "delighted" to be here.

Rear-Admiral Michael Stirling and Mrs. Stirling are the guests of Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Landymore at their house in HMC Dockyard for the weekend. The admiral's son and daughter are the guests of Commodore Angus Boulton, commodore RCN barracks, and Mrs. Boulton.

"I know we'll like it here," Admiral Stirling said.

The new admiral will assume command at HMC Dockyard Monday.

At 9:30 a.m. he will inspect a 48-man honor guard and the HMCS Naden band. Later he will confer briefly with Admiral Landymore, Air Commodore R. C. Weston, deputy maritime commander Pacific and Capt. Fred Frewer, chief of staff to the flag officer.

Admiral Landymore will leave his offices for the last time as flag officer Pacific Coast about 9:30 a.m. and at 10 he and Mrs. Landymore will leave by car.

Service and civilian personnel of Dockyard will have an opportunity to line the main road of the base to bid farewell to the departing admiral and his wife.

Admiral Stirling will begin his duties by inspecting two ships of the command—neither of which will be advised in advance.

From the top of Dockyard building No. 70, which contains the admiral's offices, the flags of both admirals will fly side by side all day.

Life in Navy For the Birds

Life in the navy's information office of the Pacific Command is developing into something strictly for the birds. A few weeks ago the office was joined by Lieut. Geoffrey Nightingale. A few days later he had a call from a Miss Sparrow in the editorial department of a Vancouver newspaper.

Today the army public relations officer from Vancouver, Lieut. William Quail, dropped in on business.

Within the last few days the office released a story on the training yacht HMCS Oriole.

Jubilee Awaits Nurses

Beds Back in Service

Some of the beds that have been vacant at Royal Jubilee Hospital for the past year are likely to be put into use within the next three weeks.

Medical administrator Dr. Murray Anderson said Thursday 20 of the 105 vacant beds would be put into use, and hospital officials are now considering putting an additional eight beds into service as well.

Assailant Sought

Esquimalt police are hunting a man who assaulted a woman Wednesday night on a residential street, then fled when her teen-aged daughter screamed.

The woman, whose name is being withheld, told police she and her teen-aged daughter were together when the attack occurred. Neither was hurt, say police.

Hospital beds were recently the subject of a controversy when it was learned 105 beds at the Jubilee were closed while their waiting list was more than 700.

SUMMER SHORTAGE

Jubilee administrator George Masters said Thursday the main reason they could open the beds is there is never a shortage of nurses on the West Coast during the winter months. "The cycle has just completed," he said,

"and we are now getting more applications from graduate nurses, but it will be the same all over again next summer."

Addition of the beds would bring the bed total at the hospital to 350 beds.

A five-bed intensive-care unit was also set up in the hospital recently at the request of the medical staff.

MEDICAL LIBRARY

The unit is designed for treating patients who are acutely ill or those recovering from serious operations who need close attention.

The emergency department has been expanded to five beds, and now includes the old admitting department. A treatment room has also been added.

Bride Carries Roses on Bible

A floor-length gown of white peau de soie that was styled with long lily point sleeves and V-shaped neckline was worn by Betty Marilyn Tyson when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Kenneth Franklin Masl.

The waistline of the gown dipped to a V. The shoulder-length veil misted from a crown of tiny pearls. Only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace. She carried a white Bible, topped with red sweetheart roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tyson, 3510 Elliston Street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Mast of Lacombe, Alta. Mr. Tyson gave his daughter in marriage.

Douglas Street Baptist Church was decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums and white candles for the ceremony at which Rev. Cecil Barner officiated.

Soloist, Mrs. E. Hanning, sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by Mrs. S. Ralph.

Miss Laura Tyson was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Mast. They wore identical gowns of chiffon over taffeta in shades of turquoise and pink with white accessories and pearl necklaces. White carnations formed their bouquets.

Janice Riddell was flower girl in a yellow nylon chiffon over rayon frock with matching headpiece and white accessories. She carried a white poy.

Ring bearer, Donny Ramadale, carried the rings on a white cushion.

Harold Waddell was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked with artificial pink carnations and white ribbons by Alan Donohue, Lorne Farrell and Bob Windrum.

A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother and decorated by Ted de Bourcier, centred the head table at a reception in the Club Soho. It was topped with a miniature bride and groom and doves holding rings. Vases of chrysanthemums completed table decor.

Master of ceremonies was Harry Tyson, the bride's uncle, and the toast was proposed by Dave Tyson, another uncle.

During the reception, Mrs. E. Hanning sang "Through the Years" and the bride's sister and brother, Laura and Bill Tyson, presented piano selections. A recitation by Jose de Bourcier completed the entertainment.

Following a honeymoon trip to Alberta, the newlyweds will make their home at 3219 Maple Street.

For travelling, the bride donned a raspberry red three-quarter-length coat and suit with black accessories and white rose corsage.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Before we married I smoked two packs of cigarettes a day. My husband asked me to stop smoking and I promised I would. I did stop for a while. Several weeks ago I started smoking again, secretly.

My husband smelled smoke on my breath yesterday and made such a scene you'd have thought I had committed a murder. He said I broke my word, that I am a liar and a sneak and he can't live with this sort of thing.

I love my husband and I'd rather die than lose him. I feel, however, that an adult woman should be allowed to smoke if she wants to and that he has no right to impose his will on me. May I have your opinion? —NICOTINE NANN.

Dear Nann: I agree that an adult woman should smoke if she wants to, but this particular adult woman surrendered that privilege when she promised her husband she'd quit. If your husband is as important to you as you say, you will kick the habit. A woman who would rather smoke than save her marriage doesn't deserve the guy.

Dear Ann Landers: Shall we hum a requiem for the cor-sonent who signed himself "Renoir"? He spent $500 on records, books and flowers on the dumb broad all the while mistaking her silence for wisdom.

I, too, was fooled by the same type. The music of our heavenly relationship was exquisite, but not until later did I realize I was plucking at muted strings and that there was no instrument attached.

The conversation that did it was this:

"What music do you prefer, Hon?"

"Oh well... you know... music."

"But I mean, do you like Corellis, Piston, Weber, Strauss?"

"Strauss. Yes, I like Strauss."

"Which one, Johann or Richard?"

"Huh?"

"Never mind. Which composition do you like best?"

"Uh? Oh... the Blue Danube."

When I heard THAT everything became clear. I'm glad I read "Renoir's" letter. I didn't think such a thing could happen twice in the same century.—DEGAS.

Dear Degas: It happened three times in the same century. Another reader dropped a girl he thought was bright after one visit to church. "I couldn't believe my ears," he wrote. "When she said, Father who art in heaven, HALLOWEEN thy name," I asked her to repeat it. She did—just that way. It was our last date."

Musical Meeting

The second meeting of the Junior Musical Arts Society was held recently with only junior members participating. Piano solos were given by Helene Barker, Janet Reynolds, Duncan Conrad, Rosemary Fryer, and Jackie Court.

Two violinists, Darien Hunt accompanied by Connie Pepper, and Alice Curran, also played for the meeting. Deanna Neilson gave a vocal solo, accompanied by Carolyn Grace Heal. Steven Mortimer played the piano.

Recap on Bulbs

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

A few weeks ago I wrote a series of articles for this column, giving in detail the procedures for lifting and wintering the various bulbs and tubers which are too tender to remain in the ground and must be given indoor protection through the winter months.

However, I am still getting quite a few letters asking what to do about the gladioli, the dahlias and the tuberous begonias, so I thought it might be helpful if I did a capsule review of the proper treatment for each of these subjects.

GLADIOLUS — Glad bulbs are taken up about four weeks after the flowers finish, or as soon as the tops are killed by frost, whichever comes first. The tops are cut off close to the bulb, and as there is a lot of disease and thrips in the tops this year, they should be stacked loosely to dry out, and eventually burnt. Even if healthy, gladioli tops are not much good in the compost heap as they rot down into a slimy, smelly mass.

No particular effort is made to clean up the bulbs at this stage. Dust them with any garden dust you may happen to have handy—rose dust, bulb dust, potato dust, fruit tree dust or the like—and store them in shallow boxes or trays. For their first two or three weeks indoors, keep them in a warm but well-ventilated place at a temperature between 75 and 85 degrees.

This warmth is needed for the drying and curing of the bulbs. The curing process is completed when it is possible to twist off the old, withered, last-year's spent bulb from the bottom of the new one. If it comes away easily and all in one piece, you can clean up the bulbs and give them another dusting, this time paying particular attention to the freshly-exposed root scar on the bottom. Store in an airy, cool place; I keep mine in old nylon stockings hung from a rafter in a very cool corner of my basement.

DAHLIAS — Under certain conditions it is quite possible to leave dahlia roots in the ground all winter, and in some cases they store better this way than indoors. For success, though, the soil should be sandy or gravelly and very well-drained, for the dormant tubers will rot in sodden ground. Moreover, the site must be free from slugs, which have an incurable penchant for the sugar in dahlia roots.

Leaving them in the ground like this, though, is just a storage device, not a permanent planting. They must still be taken up in the spring, divided into individual tubers, and replanted in the usual way.

Where the soil is heavy and drainage is less than perfect, dahlias are taken up in late October or about a week after the tops are blackened with frost, whichever comes first. Cut away the tops four inches above the roots and store temporarily upside down on sheets of newspapers spread out on the basement floor. Dust lightly with an all-purpose garden dust, as for gladioli, to protect against pests and rot diseases.

After about 10 days on their newspapers, clean up the clumps and bury them in boxes or cartons of vermiculite, storing them in a very cool place to prevent premature sprouting. Ideal storage temperature is between 40 and 45 degrees.

ART BUCHWALD Sorry for Soviet Students

Idiot Boris Head of Class

Probably the toughest thing to be in this world is a Soviet student. No matter how well you learn your lessons, it doesn't necessarily mean you're right.

For example, last week at People's School 113 in Moscow, a teacher was talking to his eighth grade class.

"Boys and girls, today the brave Soviet cosmonauts, Komarov, Yegorov, and Feoktistov, have returned from their glorious flight into space. The first question is: Who is the man who is responsible for this unbelievable feat?"

The children shout, "Comrade Khrushchev!"

"Why is Comrade Khrushchev responsible, little Vladimir?"

"Because, Comrade Teacher, he is our glorious leader, and he has sent our space ships into the heavens to show the decadent Western capitalist nations the Soviets are first in science."

"Very good, Vladimir. Now, little Katrina, what else has our beloved Comrade Khrushchev done?"

"He has kept the peace in the world, has spread the message of communism throughout the globe, and has brought prosperity to the peoples of all the Soviets."

"What else, Ivan?"

"He has made the corn grow high, the wheat grow strong, and the flowers bloom."

"And what about steel production?"

"That's good, too."

"Little Boris, who is the greatest leader against the reactionary adventurist and Chauvinist line of the Chinese government?"

"I don't know."

"Stupid lot, Boris. What do you mean, you don't know?"

"I'm not sure."

"Stay after class, Boris, and we will see if we can refresh your memory."

As he is talking, the principal comes in and whispers something into the teacher's ear. The teacher goes white. He nods and writes down some things on a pad.

Then he addresses the class again. "Now, once more. Who is the man who is responsible for our great victory over space?"

"Comrade Khrushchev," the class shouts.

"Idiot! How many times do I have to tell you? It is our glorious leader, Leonid Brezhnev, the enemy of the cult of personality and brother of the working classes."

He looks at little Vladimir.

"Now tell me, little Vladimir, what has Comrade Khrushchev done?"

"He has sent our space ship into the heavens—"

"Stop! Comrade Khrushchev is a reactionary phrasemonger, a harebrained, inept, bragging fool, and an enemy of the people!"

Katrina raises her hand. "But did he not keep the peace in the world?"

"Daughter of an imperialist! If I've told you once, I've told you a hundred times, Aleksai Nikolaevich Kosygin is a man of peace. Khrushchev is a drunkard, and a criminal with paranoid tendencies."

"But it says in the book..."

"Never mind the book! They are all going to be confiscated. I am ashamed of all of you for not learning your lessons. The only one who has done his homework is little Boris. Little Boris will someday be a great Communist leader."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Lovers Get Big Break

LONDON (NANA) — Albert Finney blew into London from his trip around the world. He will stay long enough to make a movie... Richard Johnson, co-star with Kim Novak in The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders is the man most likely to co-star with Geraldine Chaplin in the Hal Wallis production, Anne Of A Thousand Days, which I now learn will be made in England. Geraldine who is in love with Richard and vice versa (no matter what the gossip say about his interest in Kim) will of course play the young beautiful and tragic Anne Boleyn. Johnson will be Henry VIII, the monarch who chopped off her head. This is a real coup for them both. The original stars were to have been Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, but they are too busy making friends to make any more plans for anything.

There's nothing like a good advertising campaign. Of Human Bondage which received awful reviews from everyone, is doing very well at the box office. Must be because of those sexy ads of Kim Novak. It's the only way to account for the business... In Europe, Kim shows much more of herself than in the North American version... The same goes for Carroll Baker in The Carpetbaggers.

Sidney Lumet is working so fast with The Hill that his associates think he thinks he is doing a television show. Sidney learned his trade in early TV.

Assault on the Queen, about a robbery on the good ship Queen Mary. Ray Stark made a deal with the Cunard people here to location on the actual ship—in January. And I don't have to tell you that Sean Connery is the man most likely to play the lead. Everything is offered to Sean first.

All except John Huston's Kipling epic, The Man Who Would Be King. That is being offered to Marlon Brando and Richard Burton—there isn't much that gets past Richard. And it will be made in India. With Elizabeth Taylor on the sizzling set of course... Ah, here's something that isn't for Connery or Burton — My Last Duchess, which Stark will make with Alain Delon.

Sidney Chaplin is almost as happy as his half sister Geraldine these days. He is on stage in Funny Girl, for not much more than thirty minutes a night—with Sundays off. And his salary is $100,000 a year. And even without it he would not be poor. Pop endowed him with a trust fund years ago.

Jean Seberg was asked to take over for Eliza Bonner in The Heroes, but Jean is as busy as they come in Europe. Every good woman's role is offered to her and she can't do them all. So the part is vacant. Kirk Douglas stars in place of Stephen Boyd who is still with Genghis Khan which has just moved to Berlin from Yugoslavia. And did I hear that Tony Curtis would co-star?

Thirteen was an unlucky number for Ian Fleming. It was after finishing his 13th James Bond book that Ian had his fatal heart attack. Cocktailing with co-producers Cubby Broccoli and Kevin McGilary, I learned that the next Bond picture, Thunderball, was to have been the first. The legal entanglements with Ian and Kevin postponed the production. "It was part of my present deal that we make the picture immediately," Kevin told me. Each film has cost $1,000,000 more than the previous one—the first Dr. No, came in at $800,000. Thunderball will cost around $1,500,000. The villain threatens to obliterate the world with a couple of stolen atom bombs!

Charles Feldman who owns Casino Royale, the only un-Broccoli-Saltzman James Bond story, will use an actor I have never heard of, to play the suave secret service sleuth — Terence Cooper. He plans to start his picture next month and it will be interesting to see whether the public will accept any other actor than Sean Connery as Bond.

Servicemen Launch Clothing Drive
For Crippled Children in Cyprus

A clothing drive is under way in Victoria sparked by a letter from PPCLI Maj. Murray Edwards, now in Cyprus, to his friend, Lt.-Col. Douglas Nelson of 25 Militia Group.

As a result, members of all three services will assist a Red Cross crippled children's hospital in Kyrenia.

Patients are Greek and Turkish-Cypriot children from four to 12 suffering from polio, arthritis, heart and other diseases. Some are mentally retarded.

ALL TYPES WANTED
There are 31 children in the hospital and any type of clothing, for all seasons, will be acceptable.

Naval personnel are making contributions to the drive in the offices of the Command chaplain under the direction of Chaplain A. J. Mowatt.

Arrangements are being made with the RCAF to airlift the contributions to Cyprus. Deadline for the drive is Oct. 31.

CUBS, BROWNIES HELP
Helping at Work Point are members of 5th Arbutus Cub pack and 26 Victoria Brownie pack.

Militia members are taking their parcels to the Bay Street Agency. Any civilians who wish to give clothing may leave it there, too, with the caretaker.

The show is a production of Holiday Theatre, Vancouver, by Victoria's Bastion Theatre Studio.

Today's presentation is the first of an extended Vancouver Island tour by the troupe. But for two more Saturdays the production will return to Victoria—same time, same place, same show.

The United Appeal tug-of-war sponsored by University of Victoria students has been changed from Centennial Square to Bastion Square, it was learned Friday.

"The contractor has possession of Centennial Square, and workmen are still laying bricks and steps," said Roderick Clark, city special projects officer. "The site is not safe for people."

The campus newspaper The Martlet, on behalf of the students of the university, has challenged city council, the provincial cabinet, city police, university faculty, the students of Royal Roads, the Colonist and the Times, to a tug-of-war, with losing teams required to pay $50 to the United Appeal.

Royal Roads' cadets, who promised to pay the $50 win or lose, were the first to accept the challenge.

Judge Hits 'Contradictions'

MP Cleared of Indecent Assault

HULL, Que. (CP)—MP Louis Joseph Pigeon was acquitted Friday of indecently assaulting a male.

In a written judgment, District Court Judge Avila Labelle challenged the testimony of the Crown's chief witness and said there was sufficient doubt to clear Mr. Pigeon of the charge.

He is Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm.

The charge followed a complaint Aug. 3 by 18-year-old Raymond Emmond, who said he had been accosted while walking along one of the main streets here and dragged into a laneway where the MP allegedly made indecent proposals to him.

Judge Labelle said: "The plaintiff admits there was no contact between him and the accused."

New Negotiations

New Regime May Dump Red Summit

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—There is a strong possibility that the Communist conference scheduled for next summer in Moscow will be called off by the New Soviet leadership, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Communist Chinese are adamantly opposed to the conference.

The sources said the Soviet Communist party may be planning to call off the disputed meeting and then enter into negotiations with the Chinese on a suitable date for a conference that would bring together all the Communist parties of the world.

WILL NOT ATTEND

Besides the Chinese, a number of national parties have made clear that they will not attend the meeting set for next year by former premier Nikita Khrushchev, ousted as Russia's top Communist a week ago by Leonid Brezhnev.

The ostensible purpose of next year's meeting is to heal the rift between Russia and China and restore world Communist unity. The Chinese, however, suspect that it is designed to isolate them.

DRAFTING GROUP

A drafting commission is scheduled to meet here Dec. 15 to lay the groundwork for the conference. The sources said this preliminary meeting will soon be called if the Soviet leaders decide against going ahead with the 1965 plenary meeting.

800 Riot at Maryland Prison

JESSUPS, Md. (AP)—An estimated 800 prisoners at the Maryland house of correction rioted Friday night on their way back from the dining hall.

They took several guards as hostages.

But less than three hours later, about half of the prisoners were forced back into their cells after a destructive rampage.

LA-Col. George Davidson, state police chief of operations, said about a dozen guards had been rescued unharmed as troopers moved through a cell-

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Election history could be repeating itself.

Three years ago, almost to the week, former Conservative prime minister Diefenbaker led his cabinet out across the land in a blitz of speeches that ran to an impressive 103 in a few weeks.

That was the fall of '61.

The election followed in the spring of '62.

Look what's happening now.

In the past week, Prime Minister Pearson and 12 members of his cabinet have made 26 speeches, with who knows how many more scheduled.

Fanning out across the land have been the Prime Minister and cabinet members: Farreau of Justice, Sharp of Trade, Nicholson of Post Office, Laing of Northern Affairs, Martin of External, Drury of Industry, Hays of Agriculture, LaMarsh of Health, Gordon of Finance, Lamontagne of State, Benoit of Mines, and MacEachen of Labor.

The word sweeping Parliament Hill is that the Prime Minister is reconciled to, if not ready, for an early spring election.

The sudden blitz of cabinet ministerial public appearances is part of the process of getting ready.

Now the prime minister, say associates, is prepared to go to the country, if the opposition:

• Digs in again on the flag, fighting for the Canadian Red Ensign and blocking selection of the tri-ample leaf.

• Blocks any of the supply votes, which would run the government up against its monthly bills with no funds to meet them.

• Fights against the government's proposals to re-tri-ate the constitution at a price which critics already have said clearly involves selling out federal power to the provinces.

On all three the Conservative Opposition is set for battle.

Should it be war to the political death, the government would carry on until the pre-

Christmas end of this marathon session, now in progress since February. The session passed the record-breaking 175th day Friday.

Then it would recess over the Christmas-New Year holiday. Call parliament back into early session shortly after the new year, with dissolution timed for February or March at the latest, with the election following in April or May.

MILLIONS FOR NAVY

By JOHN SHAW
Colonist Staff Reporter

OTTAWA — Canada's government will shortly begin implementing a multi-million-dollar program of naval construction and purchase of new aircraft, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer told the Colonist Friday.

"A sizeable program" was the phrase he used but he didn't go into cost details. And the program will be announced "within the next few days."

Priorities have been set by the services, however, and the government is preparing estimates on its huge integrated defence plans.

HALF BILLION DOLLARS

Naval construction, it is generally believed, will be in the realm of half a billion dollars. And depending on the type of new aircraft eventually selected, the price of each machine can vary from $1,500,000 for the Nordrop F-4, for example, to $3,000,000, which is the pretty considerable cost of the new and bigger F-4.

There has been no decision at this time, the minister said, on the arming of new naval vessels with nuclear weapons, although he admitted the matter was under consideration.

"There have been some other developments in the armaments field and it is a matter of opinion whether nuclear weapons are required."

MAY BE USEFUL

"It may be unfortunate," he went on, "that it is necessary to contemplate the replacement of major military equipment all at the same time. However, on the other hand, it may be useful that we can look at these things in their relation to each other."

Perjury Charge

Quebec Judge Given Two-Year Jail Term

MONTREAL (CP)—A Quebec Superior Court judge was handcuffed by a provincial police officer Friday and led from the courtroom to begin serving a two-year prison term for perjury.

Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier, 58, a former member of Parliament for Montreal Papineau, was convicted on three charges of perjury in a dramatic trial that set a precedent in Quebec's legal history.

CALLED IN SPECIALLY

The sentence was pronounced by Judge Benoit Turmel of Sherbrooke, brought in specially to hear the case.

Mr. Justice Meunier immediately inscribed an appeal against the conviction but failed to obtain his release on bail when Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay took the motion for his release under advisement.

SEEK BAIL

The lawyers, after inscribing the appeal against the judgment, asked Mr. Justice Tremblay of the Quebec Court of Appeal to release their client on two bonds of $500 each. They emphasized that he is under constant treatment for arteriosclerosis. The chief justice's judgment on the bail issue is expected early next week.

The charges arose from a special hearing conducted by sessions court Judge Claude Wagner, now Quebec's solicitor-general.

The hearing concerned an alleged $64,000 fraudulent bankruptcy in 1962 of two former clients of Mr. Justice Meunier, who was a lawyer at the time.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Mr. Justice Meunier showed no sign of emotion when he heard the 11-page judgment.

It read in part: "I am convinced beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused testified falsely on the facts mentioned in the charge, that he knew these things were false and that he made them with the aim of misleading the court and hiding the truth."

Transplants Performed

Dead Boy May Give Sight to Adult Pair

VANCOUVER (CP) — A six-year-old boy may in death have given sight to the living.

Doctors say they will know within several days whether corneal transplants from traffic victim Terrence Allen McGillivray have helped two partially-blind adults.

Mrs. A. A. McGillivray offered her sons eyes to the British Columbia eye bank after he was hit by a truck and fatally injured Tuesday.

A Vancouver man and a woman from Victoria were called to the Vancouver General Hospital and corneal transplants were performed Wednesday. Each of the adults was blind in one eye, with some sight in the other.

Zambia Marks Independence

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Northern Rhodesia became the Republic of Zambia and Africa's 30th independent state Friday tonight. There were wild scenes of tribal jubilation throughout the Texas-sized territory and a $14,000 fireworks display in the capital.

Fishermen Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — Herring fishermen vote today on a recommendation to strike made by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) negotiating committee.

Gordon Preparing Groundwork

Income Tax Cut Likely in '65

OTTAWA (CP)—A 1965 cut in federal income taxes now seems highly probable on both economic and political grounds.

It appears the foundations for such action are being carefully laid in a series of speeches by Finance Minister Gordon, Industry Minister Drury and other cabinet members.

Their recurrent theme is the need for expansionary policy to stimulate not just economic growth — Canada already has that — but a growth rate high enough to provide jobs for the thousands of youngsters now flooding into the labor market.

Without such action unemployment will surely rise again, authorities here believe. It now is running at a seasonally-adjusted rate of about five per cent of the labor force.

Expansionary policy could mean easy credit. But credit already is easy. If anything, the prospects are that international events could cause interest rates to rise.

Hence the most readily available tool for Ottawa to stimulate demand, production and more jobs is a tax reduction,

Informants say. Present indications are both personal and corporate taxpayers would benefit, the latter the most.

There are compelling political arguments being advanced here for such a move.

The minority Pearson government is facing several high parliamentary hurdles on the pension plan, flag, redistribution, government supply and other issues. Many observers expect the government to clear these hurdles, in time.

Meanwhile, broad suggestions Mr. Gordon's next budget speech—if he gets a chance to deliver it—will contain tax cuts, are viewed here as an excellent hedge against the possibility of a winter election.

Two things. Special hops and special malt.

There's a small valley on the far side of the Alps in Europe that grows one particular strain of hops. It's the only kind of hops we use in Gold Keg.

U.S. Personnel at Comox Nuclear Warhead Prelude

By RUTH McKELLAR

COMOX—Some U.S. military men officially described as "custodial personnel" arrived recently at RCAF Station Comox. It was disclosed Friday.

Their arrival apparently is a prelude to the long-expected storage at the air base of nuclear warheads.

The "custodial personnel" are believed to be those referred to by Prime Minister Pearson in a statement Aug. 16, 1963, when he said "these people would be stationed at Canadian storage sites at bases which will, of course, remain under Canadian command and control."

Defence Minister Hellyer said in Ottawa more recently that the arrival of the warheads at Comox was scheduled for some time early in the new year.

Meanwhile, the air base will be a staging post this weekend for RAF Britannia turbo-prop planes.

The first of the planes, which are similar to the Britannias used in civilian flights and are capable of carrying 80 people, arrived at 7 p.m. Friday with no troops aboard.

Subsequent flights will begin an operation which will airlift British troops to New Zealand and New Zealand troops to Britain for an exchange training exercise.

Preliminary Report

Big Cement Well Ring Blamed in Boy's Death

COBBLE HILL — A preliminary report Friday from a pathologist in Victoria indicated a nine-year-old Cobble Hill boy died the day before under a big cement ring, it was learned last night.

Funeral services for Gregory William Shearing, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shearing of Telegraph Road, will be held from the Hirst chapel in Duncan at 3 p.m. today.

The boy, third eldest of the Shearings' six sons, was found dead in an open field near his home after a search began when he was reported missing about 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

EXTENSIVE INJURIES

Police said the youngster suffered extensive head injuries and, while it was not certain how he died, they were convinced the heavy cement ring had rolled over him.

The pathologist's report was requested following a report of hunters shooting in the area during the time the boy was missing.

NOT SHOT

But Const. H. D. Bowyer of the Shawnigan Lake RCMP detachment said a preliminary report from the pathologist stated the boy had not been shot.

Police learned Gregory and an unidentified 11-year-old playmate had been playing in a field where several large cement rings used to reinforce well are located.

ATOP RING

The other boy left for home before Gregory and, when he left, Gregory was standing atop one of the rings.

The youngster had been a diabetic for several years, and when he did not return home, his parents feared he might have gone into a coma.

SEARCH STARTED

They started a search party which was joined by a police dog from Nanaimo.

The body was found about 7:15 by Orval Maxwell of Telegraph Road, a school teacher and a neighbor of the Shearings.

The police said Gregory was found inside a cement ring, with his jacket sleeve pinned underneath. They said the ring had been rolled down a slope from its original location after logs used to support the rings had been removed.

Gregory was a student at Bench Elementary School.

Police had not decided at last report whether an inquest or an inquiry would be held.

Daylight Time Ends Tonight

Who said you can't turn back the clock? According to the two leading libraries in town, nobody did.

But Victorians, and everybody else in B.C., can do—in fact, must do—exactly that, sometime tonight to get back to standard time for another winter.

A reporter, seeking Friday night to find some way to illustrate this backward flight in time, asked the public library and the University of Victoria's reference library who did say you can't turn back the clock.

After time-consuming searches through the stacks, the librarians said the closest thing they could come up with was, of all things, "You can't turn back the hands of the clock," from The Case of the Turning Tide, a 1941 epic by Eric Stanley Gardner.

Perry Mason or not, Victorians better do it tonight—2 a.m. Sunday is supposed to be the right time—or they'll lose an hour's sleep and be ahead of standard when daylight saving time is over.

Ladysmith

Hospital Awaits Martin Approval

LADYSMITH—Officials of Ladysmith General Hospital said Friday they are hopeful the working drawings for a $269,000 expansion program will be approved by Health Minister Martin in the near future.

The drawings already have received a stamp of approval from the BCMS construction department.

ELEVEN BEDS

The hospital addition, part of which will be a shell, will provide 11 beds immediately on completion. Another 50 beds in the shell will be developed over the next 10 or 15 years.

Hospital administrator Ian Peddie said the Ladysmith share of the addition's cost, $124,000, was raised some time ago. Local efforts started in 1960, he said.

The provincial government will pay 50 per cent of the total cost and the federal government will contribute $2,000 per bed.

At present, the hospital has 32 beds. The children's ward, the officials said, is overcrowded at a 200 per cent rate most of the time.

They said adult wards are up to 80 per cent filled by children some of the time.

Errington Youth Winner

ERRINGTON—The gold tree degree badge, highest proficiency award in the junior forest warden organization, has been awarded to junior warden Rodney Fraser of Errington. The announcement was made by J. PORT ALBERNI — Fred Von Eicken of Cameron Heights, a welder by trade, proved he's a handyman in another department when he officiated at the birth of his twin daughters early one morning this week.

Mr. Von Eicken said there was no time to call a doctor before the first little girl was born at about 3:45 a.m. Fifteen minutes later as he was bathing the baby, the second, an unexpected addition to the family, put in her appearance.

The father sent three older children off to school before calling the health unit to ask for a nurse to visit his wife and the two newcomers.

All is well at home, he reported three days later, but so far there had not been time to think of names for the twins. One of the little girls weighed six pounds, nine ounces, and the other was a pound heavier.

As well as the three school children in the family, there is a pre-school daughter who is being cared for by a friend as the Von Eickens' home is being reorganized to handle two new babies.

Adult Program

Enrolment Compares Favorably

DUNCAN—Total enrolment so far in this year's adult education program of the Cowichan district school board "compares favorably with last year's enrolment for the fall and spring terms," adult education director Fred Cummings said Friday.

He said preliminary figures for October show 617 people in 43 classes, with late registrations still being accepted in a few unfilled classes.

NEW MATHEMATICS

Mr. Cummings said courses open for registration now are all new mathematics, for parents of Grades 1 to 5 children held at Maple Bay Elementary, Grade 8 children at Cowichan Senior Secondary and Grade 9 at Quamichan Junior Secondary.

Courses in photography and Chinese food also are being given at the senior secondary school.

LARGE INCREASE

Mr. Cummings said a "substantial" increase in total registration can be expected as 20 other courses still are to begin, five in November and the rest in the second term.

More information can be obtained by phoning 746-4222 between 7 and 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

To Cut Incidence

Impaired Driving Fines Boosted in Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Magistrate Eric Winch is raising fines in an effort to curb the increasing number of impaired drivers appearing in Nanaimo courts.

He handed down a $225 fine and a four-month driving licence suspension in magistrate's court Friday to William Patterson of Saanichton and Campbell River, who pleaded guilty to being impaired while in care and control of a car.

SITTING IN CAR

Police said they found Patterson in a drunken condition sitting in his car which was parked on Commercial Street early Friday.

The magistrate indicated the fines would get heavier if the trend to impaired driving continued.

The maximum penalty on a first offence is a $500 fine or three months in jail and the fine can be accompanied by a licence suspension of as long as three years.

Also appearing before Magistrate Winch were two men who pleaded guilty to vagrancy charges.

Police said Ronald McDaniel and Raymond O'Gorman, both of no fixed address, were found asleep in the lumber yard of Anglo Canadian Sawmills at the foot of Grace Street. Each was sentenced to 14 days at Oakalla prison farm.

New Regime May Dump Red Summit

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—There is a strong possibility that the Communist conference scheduled for next summer in Moscow will be called off by the New Soviet leadership, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Communist Chinese are adamantly opposed to the conference.

The sources said the Soviet Communist party may be planning to call off the disputed meeting and then enter into negotiations with the Chinese on a suitable date for a conference that would bring together all the Communist parties of the world.

WILL NOT ATTEND

Besides the Chinese, a number of national parties have made clear that they will not attend the meeting set for next year by former premier Nikita Khrushchev, ousted as Russia's top Communist a week ago by Leonid Brezhnev.

The ostensible purpose of next year's meeting is to heal the rift between Russia and China and restore world Communist unity. The Chinese, however, suspect that it is designed to isolate them.

DRAFTING GROUP

A drafting commission is scheduled to meet here Dec. 15 to lay the groundwork for the conference. The sources said this preliminary meeting will be called sooner if the Soviet leaders decide against going ahead with the 1965 plenary meeting.

Mission

Peking?

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Election history could be repeating itself. Three years ago, almost to the week, former Conservative prime minister Diefenbaker led his cabinet out across the land in a blitz of speeches that ran to an impressive 103 in a few weeks. That was the fall of '61.

The election followed in the spring of '62.

Look what's happening now. In the past week, Prime Minister Pearson and 12 members of his cabinet have made 26 speeches, with who knows how many more scheduled.

Fanning out across the land have been the Prime Minister and cabinet members Favreau of Justice, Sharp of Trade, Nicholson of Post Office, Laing of Northern Affairs, Martin of External, Drury of Industry, Hays of Agriculture, LaMarsh of Health, Gordon of Finance, Lamontagne of State, Benoit of Mines, and MacEachen of Labor.

The word sweeping Parliament Hill is that the Prime Minister is reconciled to, if not ready, for an early spring election.

The sudden blitz of cabinet ministerial public appearances is part of the process of getting ready.

Now the prime minister, say associates, is prepared to go to the country, if the opposition:

● Digs in again on the flag, fighting for the Canadian Red Ensign and blocking selection of the tri- maple leaf.

● Blocks any of the supply votes, which would run the government up against its monthly bills with no funds to meet them.

● Fights against the government's proposals to re- patriate the constitution at a price which critics already have said clearly involves selling out federal power to the provinces.

On all three the Conservative Opposition is set for battle.

Should it be war to the political death, the government would carry on until the pre-

Christmas end of this marathon session, now in progress since February. The session passed the record-breaking 175th day Friday.

Then it would recess over the Christmas-New Year holiday. Call parliament back into early session shortly after the new year, with dissolution timed for February or March at the latest, with the election following in April or May.

TAX CUT LIKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—A 1965 cut in federal income taxes now seems highly probable on both economic and political grounds.

It appears the foundations for such action are being carefully laid in a series of speeches by Finance Minister Gordon, Industry Minister Drury and other cabinet ministers.

Their recurrent theme is the need for expansionary policy to stimulate not just economic growth — Canada already has that — but a growth rate high enough to provide jobs for the thousands of youngsters now flooding into the labor market.

Without such action unemployment will surely rise again, authorities here believe. It now is running at a seasonally-adjusted rate of about five per cent of the labor force.

Expansionary policy could mean easy credit. But credit already is easy. If anything, the prospects are that international events could cause interest rates to rise.

Hence the most readily available tool for Ottawa to stimulate demand, production and more jobs is a tax reduction, informants say. Present indications are both personal and corporate taxpayers would benefit, the latter the most.

There are compelling political arguments being advanced here for such a move.

The minority Pearson government is facing several high parliamentary hurdles on the pension plan, flag, redistribution, government supply and other issues. Many observers expect the government to clear these hurdles, in time.

Meanwhile, broad suggestions Mr. Gordon's next budget speech—if he gets a chance to deliver it—will contain tax cuts, are viewed here as an excellent hedge against the possibility of a winter election.

Perjury Charge

Quebec Judge Given Two-Year Jail Term

MONTREAL (CP)—A Quebec Superior Court justice was handed over by a provincial police officer Friday and led from the courtroom to begin serving a two-year prison term for perjury.

Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier, 58, a former member of Parliament for Montreal Papineau, was convicted on three charges of perjury in a dramatic trial that set a precedent in Quebec's legal history.

CALL IN SPECIALLY

The sentence was pronounced by Judge Benoit Turmel of Sherbrooke, brought in specially to hear the case.

Mr. Justice Meunier immediately inscribed an appeal against the conviction but failed to obtain his release on bail when Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay took the motion for his release under advisement.

SEEK BAIL

The lawyers, after inscribing the appeal against the judgment, asked Mr. Justice Tremblay of the Quebec Court of Appeal to release their client on two bonds of $350 each. They emphasized that he is under constant treatment for arteriosclerosis. The chief justice's judgment on the bail issue is expected early next week.

The charges arose from a special hearing conducted by sessions court Judge Claude Wagner, now Quebec's solicitor-general.

The hearing concerned an alleged $4,000 fraudulent bankruptcy in 1962 of two former clients of Mr. Justice Meunier, who was a lawyer at the time.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

Mr. Justice Meunier showed no sign of emotion when he heard the 11-page judgment.

It read in part: "I am convinced beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused testified falsely on the facts mentioned in the charge, that he knew these things were false and that he made them with the aim of misleading the court and hiding the truth."

800 Riot at Maryland Prison

JESSUPS, Md. (AP)—An estimated 800 prisoners at the Maryland house of correction rioted Friday night on their way back from the dining hall.

They took several guards as hostages.

But less than three hours later, about half of the prisoners were forced back into their cells after a destructive rampage.

Lt.-Col. George Davidson, state police chief of operations, said about a dozen guards had been rescued unharmed as troops moved through a cellblock to confront the riotous prisoners.

"The guards had locked themselves in the cells for protection," Davidson said.

None of the guards had been injured, but two prisoners had been hurt by flying objects thrown from one prison tier to another.

Defence Construction Program

Half Billion Dollars for Navy

By JOHN SHAW
Colonist Staff Writer

OTTAWA — Canada's government will shortly begin implementing a multi-million-dollar program of naval construction and purchase of new aircraft, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer told the Colonist Friday.

"A sizeable program" was the phrase he used but he didn't go into cost details. And the program will be announced "within the next few days."

*****

Priorities have been set by the services, however, and the government is preparing estimates on its huge integrated defence plans.

Naval construction, it is generally believed, will be in the realm of half a billion dollars. And depending on the type of new aircraft eventually selected, the price of each machine can vary from $1,500,000 for the Northrop F-5, for example, to $3,000,000, which is the pretty considerable cost of the new and bigger F-4.

There has been no decision at this time, the minister said, on the arming of new naval vessels with nuclear weapons, although he admitted the matter was under consideration.

"There have been some other developments in the armaments field and it is a matter of opinion whether nuclear weapons are required."

"It may be unfortunate," he went on, "that it is necessary to contemplate the replacement of major military equipment all at the same time. However, on the other hand, it may be useful that we can look at these things in their relation to each other."

Transplants Performed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A six-year-old boy may in death have given sight to the living.

Doctors say they will know within several days whether corneal transplants from traffic victim Terrance Allen McGillivray have helped two partially-blinded adults.

Mrs. A. A. McGillivray offered her son's eyes to the British Columbia eye bank after he was hit by a truck and fatally injured Tuesday.

A Vancouver man and a woman from Victoria were called to the Vancouver General Hospital and corneal transplants were performed Wednesday.
